B.B.C. WIRELESS
FOR POLITICAL BROADCASTS

Three Nights Given
To Liberals

SNOWDEN, LLOYD-GEORGE AND
SAMUEL TO SPEAK

London, Yesterday.
Satisfaction is expressed in all Liberal newspapers at the announcement that the election broadcasts on the three nights allotted to the Liberals by an agreement between the political parties and the British Broadcasting Corporation will be delivered by Viscount Snowden, Mr. Lloyd-George and Sir Herbert Samuel.

The official Liberal Opposition is led by Sir Herbert Samuel. Mr. Lloyd-George is the leader of a small Liberal section not hitherto associated with the Samuel Liberals. Viscount Snowden, who is a Detached Socialist, has shown considerable interest in the recent Lloyd-George proposals for national recovery.

The Manchester Guardian says the fact that Mr. Lloyd George and Viscount Snowden have both found it possible to identify themselves so closely with the Liberal campaign, even though the association is proved to be confined to wireless, is an event of some political significance.—British Wireless Service.

LABOUR PARTY'S VIEWS

Election Manifesto Issued

COLLECTIVE PEACE SYSTEM

London, To-day.
The election manifesto issued on Thursday night by the Labour Party states that the Labour Party seeks wholehearted co-operation with the League of Nations and with all the States outside the League which desire peace.

It stands firmly for the collective peace system. It demands speedy action through the League to bring the war in Africa to an end and to be followed by an immediate resumption of negotiations for all-round disarmament.

The Party's views on disarmament are prefaced by a declaration that Labour forces will efficiently maintain such national defence forces as are necessary and consistent with the membership of the League.—British Wireless Service.

Canton, Yesterday.
Several important Communist officials in Dragon Lion Stone, between Nanshan and Tayu, were shot dead by Cantonese troops, who disguised themselves as bandits, according to reports reaching here last night.

The scene of the killing is located on the Kwangtung-Kiangsi borders. The Communist headquarters, which is hidden in a mountain in Dragon Lion Stone was the hub of Communist activities in South China.

Two companies of the first division were sent to round up the Reds. The soldiers discarded (Continued on Page 20.)

The fact that Viscount Snowden, above, has been able to associate himself with Mr. Lloyd-George in the Liberal campaign is regarded in some quarters as of considerable political significance.

Features

COLONY'S OLDEST JOURNAL'S
PRAISEWORTHY ENTERPRISE

Beginning with to-morrow's issue the China Mail, which is now in the ninety-first year of its existence and which has deservedly held its place in public favour, especially for the extent and excellence of its sports news, throughout those years, is introducing certain additions and alterations which, it is hoped, will add to its present popularity.

Two notable additions are the "comic strip"—really comic—of one of the funniest of screen characters, "Popeye the Sailor" by E. C. Sagar and the pictorial series "Believe It Or Not" by the famous American cartoonist Robert LeRoy Ripley, which will appear as daily features in addition to the famous "Mr. Jiggs" of George McManus. The first instalment of "Popeye" will be found in this issue of the Sunday Herald; his subsequent adventures may be followed in the China Mail.

WEEKLY FEATURES

In each Monday's issue will be found, in addition to "Popeye," "Mr. Jiggs" and "Believe It Or Not," a comprehensive review of the week-end's sport. On Tuesday there will be local hockey notes. On Thursday Andy Ducat's (Continued on Page 17)

GEN. GRAZIANI

OF TWO ARMIES

Isolating Abyssinia

ITALIANS ADVANCE 40 MILES
INTO SHEBELI VALLEY

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Addis Ababa, Yesterday.
The reports wireless on Friday that the Italian offensive on Ogaden and Webbe Shebeli was at a standstill owing to the rains appear to be contradicted by yesterday's reports from Italian sources to the effect that General Graziani's forces are pressing on, the Italian Somali army being determined to accomplish the task of effecting a junction of the northern and southern armies in order to isolate Abyssinia from the sea, and thus prevent further supplies of war material and munitions reaching the Abyssinians.

ITALIAN SUCCESSES
Rome: Successes had been won by the Italian southern army, above all at Webbe Shebeli, according to the official army report issued by the Italian Propaganda Minister, notifying the capture of Kallalo, the chief town in the Shebeli region.

That means that the Italians have proceeded a good 40 miles into the Shebeli Valley, since they began the advance early this week.—Trans-Ocean Service.

PRIVY COUNCIL ORDER
REGARDING SANCTIONS
PROHIBITED GOODS DETAILED

London, Yesterday.
A supplement to the "London Gazette" published to-day gives the text of the order adopted by the Privy Council yesterday implementing the sanctions against Italy.

Among the prohibited goods for export to Italy are arms, explosives and raw materials, including various metals, raw rubber, horses, mules, donkeys, camels and all other transport animals.

It also prohibits credits to Italy, but the financial sanctions are only operative after a date which the Treasury and the Board of Trade will decide.

The order is likewise applied to certain British possessions, protectorates and mandated territories. (Continued on Page 17)

COUNT VINCI'S
DEPARTURE

No Incident Of Any Kind Reported

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Addis Ababa, yesterday.
The Italian Minister, Count Vinci, left here by rail for Djibouti at noon, accompanied by the Italian Military Attache, Colonel Calderini, and a detachment of Imperial Guards, the departure being marked by no incident of any kind.

A great crowd gathered round the railway station, drawn by curiosity, and also many foreign journalists and cameramen. Disappointment awaited them, however, since the Minister and the Attache arrived, not at the station, but at the customs house, and in an enclosed carriage surrounded by strong detachments of the Imperial Guards.—Trans-Ocean Service.

Hong Kong Chinese
Soccer Team Lose

Shanghai, Yesterday.

The Hong Kong Chinese Football team, winners of the China National Games Football Championship, were to-day defeated by the Club Lusitano by 4 goals to 2 in a charity match played at the new Civic Centre Stadium.

The Portuguese team scored all their goals in the first half, and were four clear goals in the lead at the interval.

Lee Wai-tong, the soccer idol of China and captain of the Hong Kong team, who returned to the Colony a few days ago, was sadly missed from the forward line.—Reuter.

CONSOLIDATION BY DE BONO'S ARMY

ANNEXATION OF TIGRE
REPORTED

NOTHING NEW ON SOMALI FRONT

Rome, Yesterday.

Only the rattle of tanks going into action for the first time in Somaliland breaks the strange hush that has fallen on the rival armies as the war in Abyssinia enters on its fourth week.

Huge forces are massing in the north, east and south of Abyssinia while strings of ships are bringing still more Italian troops across the Mediterranean to be thrown into the struggle. Meanwhile along the great caravan road from Addis Ababa the Emperor's European-trained Guards are at present marching to meet the invader, but after three weeks there has not yet been a big battle. Officially only five Italian and 40 Italian native soldiers have been killed.

General de Bono's army of 180,000 men, occupying a zone in Tigre 50 miles wide and 25 deep, is now busily engaged in the work of consolidation, building roads, digging wells and constructing reservoirs. They are not expected to advance before November.

The Italians are opposed by three Abyssinian armies, but at no point are the opposing forces actually in contact.

The Italian press daily reports fresh submissions of Abyssinians and states that General de Bono has formally annexed Tigre to Italy.

DE BONO'S NEW MOVE
Rome, Yesterday. General de Bono has initiated an operation on the Eritrean front for the occupation of the regions of the Farasat River, using a native army corps for the purpose, says a communiqué. Several chiefs with their followers in the region have submitted. There is nothing new on the Somali front.—Reuter.

Other cables on Abyssinia will be found on Pages 11 and 12.

LOANS TO ITALY
FORBIDDEN

Spanish Ministerial
Council Decision

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Madrid, Yesterday.

All loans to Italy have been forbidden by the decision of the Ministerial Council, in accordance with the financial sanctions agreed upon at Geneva. The Ministerial Council also passed a decree to the effect that in future producer's rights will be withdrawn from the film companies which display in other countries films whose contents show Spanish national customs in a ridiculous light.

The War Minister submitted plans for strengthening military air forces, which will probably be passed at an early re-union of the Ministerial Council.—Trans-Ocean Service.

ULSTER'S HOMAGE
TO LORD CARSON

500,000 Line Streets
At Funeral

Belfast, Yesterday.

Ulster paid homage to the late Lord Carson when 500,000 people from all parts of Northern Ireland and loyalists from the Free State lined the streets for the funeral procession from the quayside to the Cathedral.

Public buildings and business premises were closed throughout the city and flags flew at half-mast as signs of mourning everywhere.—Reuter.

MEASURES

EARLIER HOPES
NOT REALISED

NO ALTERNATIVE NOW

London, Yesterday.

The Minister for League of Nations Affairs, Mr. Anthony Eden, will leave London for Geneva next Wednesday to be present at the meeting of the Co-ordinating Committee of the League, which will be held on the following day, to consider the replies of the various Governments in regard to putting into execution the financial and economic sanctions.

The hopes that had been entertained in some quarters that a settlement of the Italo-Abyssinian war might be effected before measures of pressure upon Italy were put into effect are unlikely to be realised.

These hopes were mainly based on the Franco-Italian exchanges, but so far as the nature of any proposals which have been revealed in these exchanges is known here, they are not regarded as justifying the League in postponing the date of the application of economic sanctions and in responsible quarters here it is felt that the Geneva Powers will have no alternative but to proceed with the measures already agreed upon in principle as offering the best means of hastening a settlement on terms acceptable to Italy, Abyssinia and the League.—British Wireless Service.

The state of alarm proclaimed throughout all Bulgaria on October 2, when a plot to overthrow the regime was discovered, ended on Friday night with a decree by the Ministerial Council.

According to an official decree made at the same time, the Government arrested a large number of officers of high rank and also many very prominent members of the civil service, including six regional governors who were appointed by the previous Government, and a number of leading persons in party politics.—Trans-Ocean Service.

SHORT STORY

EASY MONEY

By RICHARD DICKER

THE old oak dresser cried aloud for attention. Monopolising as it did practically one entire wall of the tiny shop, no one entering the door could fail to notice it, its quaint, massive legs turned grotesquely outwards, its whole surface glittering with the rosy light which seems part and parcel of real old oak.

Mannerling, pausing in the village on his way westwards, had stopped his car nearby in order to replenish his tobacco pouch and, walking down the quaint little street, had sighted the dresser through the dimly curtained window.

Old furniture was Mannerling's living. He spent his time wandering around rural England in his ancient car—he believed that an old car helped one to keep prices down!—in search of bargains.

The trade knew no more astute buyer than he; he had developed a technique which, peculiarly his own, aided him to buy choice pieces at prices which other buyers could not credit. The ethics of cheating simple folk out of their due did not worry him at all.

Slight of the dresser made him change his plans. Stooping to avoid the massive beam over the little doorway, he made his way into the shop. A tiny bell tinkled as he closed the door, but for fully a minute he was left alone, facing that glorious dresser.

To his experienced eye, there was no doubt about its authenticity. Shape, polish, appearance were all speaking testimony to its long life, and Mannerling's eye brightened as he examined the dresser more closely.

It was profusely decorated with carved figures and foliage, not perfectly executed yet having a rough, massive strength which lifted the piece right over the heads of ordinary dressers of a similar period.

Mannerling knew where he could sell such a piece and sell it easily. True, the price might not be very high, but he anticipated that, with his usual bargaining success, he would be able to make a handsome profit on the deal.

His surmising was interrupted by the sound of slow footsteps, and a moment later he was asking to see some picture postcards. His inquiry was dealt with by a rosy-cheeked, motherly old countrywoman, simple in manner and slow in her movements.

Pleasantly, he passed the time of day with the old woman, and gradually worked the subject round to old furniture.

"That's not a bad old dresser you've got," he said at last. "Been in the family for years, I suppose?"

"Many years, sir," replied the old woman, "thought I don't rightly know how old it may be."

"Looks almost home-made to me," was Mannerling's opinion, "though it's a fine piece of work for all that. Have you ever thought of selling it?"

The old woman shrugged her shoulders, and her face was wreathed in smiles.

"Not really, sir, though one or two gentlemen like yourself have wanted to buy it. We wouldn't part with it, though, for Jim—my husband—says he won't let it go. He always thinks that one day someone will pay a lot of money for it, and he doesn't believe in selling it at first time of asking."

Mannerling pursed his lips doubtfully. "Well, I know a little about furniture," he said, "and I can tell you that that dresser will never be worth a great deal. It might make as much as ten pounds, but no more."

The old woman smiled again. "We'd never dream of selling it for that," she answered. "My Jim's got an idea that that dresser's a sort of nest-egg to us, and he wouldn't part with it unless we needed the money. He always says it stands between us and the workhouse—why, bless you, sir, he even believes that it need arise that dresser will provide us with all we want. He's fair crazy about it—he even thinks there's money hidden in it somewhere."

"Secret drawers, eh?" asked Mannerling, and the old woman nodded.

"Yes, sir, but I don't believe it for a minute. I've dusted that dresser now for thirty years, and I've not found a secret drawer anywhere in it, nor money, either."

Mannerling was silent for a moment, and then he made his offer. "I tell you what, I'm rather taken with this dresser, and I'll give you twelve pounds for it. In a saleroom you might get ten—from a dealer you would not get more than six or seven, but I want it for my own home. What about it?"

To himself he mused that the dresser could readily be resold in a certain quarter for fifty pounds or more.

The old woman shook her head decisively. "I'll tell my husband, sir, but he'll never agree to that. I know—I'll fetch him, sir, and you can hear him say so for yourself."

She ambled slowly from the shop, and Mannerling, half amused and half irritated, stepped over and fingered the carving. "It looks as though I've struck a rock this time," he pondered. "I'd like the thing, but I'm not going to give any fancy prices."

His experienced fingers were wandering over the carving, automatically hunting for the signs of good work which only the expert can appreciate. He himself scarcely realised what he was doing until suddenly, as his fingers reached behind a curiously carved flower, he heard a faint click. A cherub's head fell forward and he realised that it was on hinges. By chance he had hit upon one of the secret drawers for which the old couple who owned the dresser had so frequently searched.

Quick as lightning, Mannerling's hand slid into the dark cavity revealed by the fallen head, to emerge almost as swiftly clutching a piece of faded paper. It was covered with age-old writing, but the words stood out clearly.

"You all thought I had stolen the money," Mannerling read, "but you were all wrong. I did take it to frighten you, because you had wronged me, but it is all here in this dresser—all the two hundred guineas. I'm the only one who knows that there are three secret drawers—you only know one of them. I hope you won't find this one and the one where the guineas are for years—it will serve you right."

Below was the signature: "Martyn."

Mannerling's brain worked fast. Here was something with which he had not reckoned. Of course, the guineas might have been discovered years earlier, though the letter had not. He would have to sound the old couple about it without raising their suspicions.

He heard them returning, and in a flash had replaced the letter and pushed the cherub's head back into place. It closed with the faintest of clicks.

By the time they arrived, Mannerling was looking unconcernedly out of the window.

The old woman introduced her husband.

"This is the gentleman, Jim," she said. "Now tell him what you've just told me."

Jim, an honest-faced, grey-bearded old countryman, eyed Mannerling with a smile.

"I've just told my good wife, sir, that we're not selling the dresser," he said slowly. "It's been in our family since great Uncle Martyn's day, and that's a long time now, sir."

Mannerling's heart leapt. "Great Uncle Martyn? Who was he?" he asked, and the old man's face darkened.

"A bad man, sir, if ever there was one. He stole a lot of money from my grandfather, sir—there was terrible ructions about it, but we never got it back."

"And the money was never found?" queried Mannerling. "No, sir. It vanished, and Uncle Martyn never said what he did with it."

"You're sure it wasn't found?" insisted Mannerling, and the old man regarded him intently.

NERVES?

Stomach trouble?

A London physician writes: "A noteworthy effect of Sanatogen is a better appetite, which is generally noticed within three or four days after beginning this nerve food."

One of the many forms in which "nerves" manifest themselves is disorders of the stomach. Digestion—like every other function of the body—is governed by the nervous system. "Heavy digestion," "weak stomach"—all those troubles are in 9 out of 10 cases due to overstrained nerves. That is why Sanatogen often works wonders in all troubles of the stomach and the intestines. And even in the most serious cases of stomach disease Sanatogen is prescribed by the leading physicians, because it not only regulates the functions of the stomach, but also because it is so easily digestible and gives the stomach a rest. Enjoy your meals again, enjoy life again, by taking Sanatogen. Sanatogen is absolutely trustworthy. Over 25,000 physicians have expressed their admiration in writing.

Here is Health!

SANATOGEN adds health to your system. It conquers nervous conditions by feeding the nerves, is easily digestible and gives new fresh blood.

Style goes MILITARY in Autumn Dresses

ELEGANCE AND SMARTNESS IN CURRENT MODE

IN such a season as this, when goddess-like draperies, military pump and splendour and Renaissance romanticism all emphasise quality, silk has its innings as a basis for many fabrics of importance.

There are many cases in which you will naturally turn to silk in order to get the effect you want. You'll like your silk crepes to have a dull, wool-like finish—but you'll want them to be of pure dye silk, in order that they will keep their shape as pure dye silks do. And against the dull surface of these crepes you'll like the idea of playing highlights in the form of bright silk frogs.

If, for evening, you are going in for Grecian goddess draperies, you will appreciate silk for its true worth because the heavy silk sheers and the silk crepes have that natural elasticity that allows them to fall in the deep, sculptural folds upon which such a style depends for its true classic beauty.

Pleats again emphasise the importance of pure dye silk. For pleats made in a pure dye silk fabric stay pleated and flat, with all the desired crispness of outlines. Remember that when you go looking for a blouse with one of those pleated shirt-bosom effects, and check to see if the blouse of your choice is made of good silk.

Better think of the silk feature, too, when you find yourself weakening toward a grainy silk crepe afternoon dress with pleats all around the skirt, from the knees down.

Military Neatness

Perhaps the military influence will make us more insistent upon military neatness. If so, you'll be having your clothes steamed and cleaned and pressed frequently enough to enable you to pass the most rigid "inspection." In that case, your fabrics will need to have plenty of natural elasticity to permit them to spring right back to the original shape after cleaning. (Sags and bulges from the stretching of poor fabrics don't fit in with military swank!) And that's where good silk "shines" again, with its elastic "come-back."

Green Tomato Pickles
One peck green tomatoes, 1 cup salt, 5 cups sliced onions, 3 green peppers, 1/2 pound mustard seed, 1/2 pound whole cloves, 1/2 pound black peppercorns, 1/2 quart cider vinegar, 3 pounds brown sugar, 2 cups water, 4 tablespoons ground cinnamon, 2 tablespoons ground allspice, 2 teaspoons ground cloves, 2 teaspoons ground nutmeg, 1 1/2 teaspoons mustard.

Cut tomatoes in slices, sprinkle with salt and let stand over night. Rinse once, put alternate layers tomatoes, onions and minced peppers in a large kettle. Put the ground spices in a cloth bag, set in kettle, add other ingredients and cook till tender and rich in colour. Store in covered crock and leave the spice-bag in the pickle.

THE FLAG OF COURAGE

THE woman who looks into her mirror and changes her dulled skin with a whiff of colour on either cheek, and the point of her chin, then a fluff of powder over her face and throat, a careful sweep of lipstick across her pale mouth, a touch of darkness on her too-light brows and lashes is hoisting her flag of courage. She is saying to time and wear and tear and disillusionment and ill-health: "I will not surrender! I don't have to! I know how to fight!" That's courage of the mind and a gallant thing to do. Her husband will look at her and say, "She's as pretty as the day I married her"; her friends are going to say, "She doesn't look a day over twenty." That is if you learn to put your make-up on well. Every woman should have a large-sized magnifying mirror which should be set on her dressing-table in a good light—even a hand magnifying mirror is better than an ordinary one. After thirty-five a woman should never make up for vivacious, but for softness, unless she wants to harden her face—which, of course, she doesn't. Youth can stand splashes of colour, but older women should favour a beautiful pastel shade, no strong, hard contrasts. But guard against a pink-and-white baby make-up; you may think it makes you look younger, but it doesn't.

THE WOMAN OF 40

THE Years Beyond 40 can no longer be said to be dull and dreary ones because of lack of education or training. Opportunities in the trades and professions are becoming more numerous for women. Life is becoming less barren for those who have trained themselves to do constructive work. For them the years beyond 40 are the years they have really been waiting for. It is then that they reach the pinnacle of their usefulness. The years of apprenticeship and study give way to the years of accomplishment.

What of the woman who has not prepared herself for any definite work in life? What of the woman to whom marriage has been the only career for which she has fitted herself? What has life to offer her?

A great deal! Here, too, the years beyond forty are the gateway to a happier, more useful life than ever before. She can continue making marriage a career even after the children have left the parental roof to live lives of their own. She can be of help to her husband in his business or professional life. With the children grown up she can recapture the feeling of comradeship which was a part of their courtship. Or she can find new interests outside her home.

She now has time for the recreation she missed while raising a family. Golf, bridge, walking, gardening, can do a great deal towards keeping her young in spirit. Correct food, and planned, intelligent exercise can do wonders towards bringing back or retaining the vitality of youth.

TIPS FOR THE TOILET

THE most lasting way to darken your lashes is to dye them, and you can do this easily at home. There is one perfectly harmless method, which will last until your eyelashes renew themselves, which they do about every three months. If you don't want anything quite as "permanent", there is an eyelash lacquer, which stays on several days and won't come off even in water.

A good liquid tar shampoo is excellent for dark hair. Add a tablespoonful of vinegar to the rinsing water, to bring out the natural highlights. If your hair needs toning up and nourishing, I suggest you use Vaseline hair tonic on it two or three times a week, for a while. Massage your scalp with warm oil before shampooing.

A novel way of softening the bath water and perfuming the atmosphere of the bathroom is to suspend little silk bags filled with pot-pourri and an equal quantity of borax crystals from the hot water tap. A teaspoonful of rasped sandalwood added to each bag brings out the fragrance of the pot-pourri and enables the bag to be used more than once.

Household ammonia makes the hardest water silky soft to the skin, but if you use it for softening the water for a shampoo, add it to boiling water and then leave the water long enough to cool and get rid of any excess of ammonia gas.

Toilet oatmeal and powdered starch appear to soften hard water, but actually they have no effect. They are, however, useful as emollients and compensate for the poor lather which soaps give in hard water.

There are several quite inexpensive machines on the market now, which soften every drop of water used in the household, and are a perfect boon in a district of very hard water.

FOOT COMFORT

YOU irritate your feet and can't walk comfortably if your stockings are short in the feet, so see that they are the right size.

If you take 4 in shoes, choose stockings 9 in. long; for 4 or 5 1/2 shoes, 9 1/2 in. stockings; and for 6 and 6 1/2 shoes, 10 in. stockings.

Don't be afraid to ask for the right size. If your feet are big, go to a shop where they stock big stockings and get the correct size. A stocking that is big enough to begin with will not wear out quickly, and you will not suffer from the constant annoyance of always having holes in the toes or heels of your stockings, to darn, and it is certainly far more comfortable to walk when your feet have room to move about in your stockings.

POLICE WIN GAME OF THREE PENALTIES

DESERVING SUCCESS AGAINST CLUB

GREEN IN BRILLIANT FORM

THE Police continued in winning vein in their Premier League soccer encounter against the Club yesterday, when on the latter's ground they emerged victorious from a very close and exciting game by the odd goal in three.

All three goals scored were from penalty-kicks, Moss converting those for the Police, while Forrow scored for the Club. The game was played throughout at a fast pace, in spite of the treacherous weather conditions. Pools of water lay on the surface of the pitch, and a heavy fall of rain during the opening exchanges added still further to the players' difficulties.

KOWLOON TOO GOOD FOR STONECUTTERS

D. Knox Excels On The Wing

GUNNERS POOR IN FRONT OF GOAL

Kowloon easily beat the Artillery (Stonecutters) on the Kowloon ground yesterday by four goals to nil in their First Division soccer engagement.

The Kowloon eleven gave a surprisingly good show, particularly among their forwards, who advanced with fine determination and judgment and were quick to take chances when in front of the Artillery goal. The Gunners were not slow in advancing, but their forwards met with considerable opposition against Everest and Willis in the Kowloon defence and a most reliable and steady goalkeeper in Boyce.

CLUB JUNIORS GO DOWN FIGHTING

Plucky Resistance To South China

STIRLING OUTSTANDING

The Club juniors fought a spirited Second Division soccer game with South China on the Club ground yesterday, and only just failed by the odd goal in five.

Although two goals in arrears for the majority of the game, the Club never gave up, and by persistent attacks, actually drew level, but a late goal by South China decided the issue.

Stirling played a grand game in goal for the Club, bringing off many fine saves against a sharp-shooting Chinese forward line. Two of the goals registered against him would have been saved on a dry day, the greasy ball slipping through his hands.

After 12 minutes a long shot by Ng Po-kui slipped through Stirling's hands to find the net, and a few minutes later a fine solo-run and shot by Ip Yun-bor placed the Chinese two up. The Club reduced the lead when Boll neatly turned a corner-kick by Fisher past Tsang, and equalised early in the second half through Fisher, who converted a penalty for a foul on Greenburg.

Late in the game a centre by Ip Yun-bor to Chan Tak-fai was cleverly headed past Stirling, thus giving South China both points after an interesting game.

Higgins, the Lincoln's centre-forward, above, played a large part in the defeat of the Saints yesterday scoring two of his sides six goals.

NAVY TROUNCE EAST LANC. IN FAST GAME

Two Penalties Against Soldiers

THREE GOALS SCORED IN SECOND HALF

The Navy continued their promising start of last week in the premier soccer league when they defeated the East Lancs at Soanpoo yesterday by 4-1; the three winning goals being scored in the second half.

The Navy had a narrow escape soon after the commencement of the game, when Ridings shot goalwards and Nicholson misjudged in attempting to clear, the ball glancing off his leg toward the goal. Hayman, however, dived to touch the ball round the post for a fruitless corner.

The Navy opened the scoring after 10 minutes, Bennett shooting across the goalmouth for Dorrin to deflect the ball into the net.

Soldiers On Level Terms
The soldiers equalised five minutes before the interval, when Gorman pushed the ball through the centre. Hayman rushed out to tackle Sandford, but as they collided Sandford managed to tap the ball into the open net.

The Navy pressed heavily during the second half but were unable to take the lead until after 20 minutes, when Gorman accidentally handled in the area, Wollerson converting the 'spot' kick.

Another unfortunate mishap placed the Navy further in the lead when Swain handled just inside the area, Wollerson again converting with a hard drive.

EAST LANC. WIN BY ODD GOAL

Recreio Make Use Of Opportunities

The East Lancs still retain their 100 per cent. record in the Second Division of the Football League.

In a fast and interesting encounter they defeated the Recreio yesterday at King's Park by 3 goals to 2.

Both teams played clever football, the ball being continually swung from end to end, until the East Lancs took the lead, securing two goals in quick succession through Griffen and Bowker.

The soldiers then relaxed their efforts for a spell, and the Recreio, seizing the opportunity, scored a clever goal through Costa who, receiving a back pass from Campos, sent in a fast drive to find the net.

After the interval the Recreio pressed and, in a melee round the goalmouth, Campos levelled the scores, Williams, the East Lancs' goal-keeper, being hustled over; the line whilst in possession.

Shortly afterwards the East Lancs regained the lead through Horner, who received at close range to send in a terrific shot which Fernandez failed to hold.

TOO WET FOR REFEREE!

The Third Division soccer encounter between the Sappers and the Lincolns was postponed yesterday owing to the non-appearance of the referee. Both teams were present on the ground, but after a quarter of an hour's kicking about in the rain it was decided to call the game off.

ST. JOSEPH'S ROUTED BY THE LINCOLNS

Concede Six Goals Without Reply

RIDLEY SCORES TWICE

In their First Division soccer encounter on the St. Joseph's ground at Happy Valley yesterday the Lincolns overwhelmed St. Joseph's by six clear goals.

Following a melee in the Saints' goalmouth, Ridley placed the ball in the net, placing it past Costa, who was too near the goal to effect a clearance. A dash through by Omar nearly resulted in a goal for St. Joseph's, but the ground was too slippery, and Omar's long oblique shot glanced off the upright into play again.

Sinclair Best Half
The combination of the St. Joseph's forwards was very poor, and, although the line was well fed by their halves, of which Sinclair was the best, they failed in their passing.

In the second half - Baldry cleverly dribbled the ball towards the St. Joseph's goal and scored with a good shot from 10 yards out.

Engineers Score Six Times As University Crack Up

The Engineers experienced little difficulty in defeating the University in their Second Division soccer encounter at the Valley yesterday, emerging victors by 6 goals to 1.

Both sides played good football throughout the first half, and several interesting movements were witnessed. The second half, however, was decidedly in the soldiers' favour, the University side appearing to fall to pieces, and during the last quarter of an hour, very little was seen of the University's forwards, their services being required in assisting the defence.

Howlett opened the scoring for the Engineers, following a scrumming in the University goalmouth,

G. H. H., above, the Club right-back, was unfortunate to give the Police two penalties yesterday, as a result of which the latter won their encounter by the odd goal in three.

FUSILIERS EXTENDED BY LYEEMUN

Close Encounter At Caroline Hill

DURHAM IN LIMELIGHT

The Fusiliers defeated the Artillery, Lyeemun, by 4 goals to 2 at the Caroline Hill Stadium yesterday afternoon in their premier league soccer clash. Both teams soon settled down to the adverse conditions and a really good game was seen.

Unfortunately for the R.A. Harris, their left half, did not make an appearance and the team had to play with ten men throughout.

A clever piece of work by Kenaghan brought about the Fusiliers' first goal. He passed the ball up to Sullivan, who tried a hard shot which Durham stopped but could not hold. Hughes seized the opportunity and ran in and tapped the trickling ball into the net, after 12 minutes play. Brilliant play by Hughes led to Harrison almost scoring a second goal for the Fusiliers, but he was brought down on the R.A. goal line by Fisher. Harrison took the 'spot' kick but missed. Sullivan placed the Fusiliers further ahead with a lightning-like drive from close range from a pass from Roberts.

SEVEN GOALS FOR FUSILIERS

Radio Falter In The Mud

Happy Valley was a veritable quagmire yesterday when the Fusiliers and Radio met in a Second Division soccer encounter, in which the Fusiliers were able to exploit the conditions more advantageously than their opponents and scored seven goals without reply.

Evans opened the scoring and Grealy increased the lead. On the change of ends the Fusiliers forwards found themselves moving on firmer turf and made full use of this advantage to score five goals in this half. Evans secured the first, which was quickly followed by one from Grealy. The next goal was scored by Bumater, who was very prominent at this stage. Pro-Adridge attacking by the Fusiliers saw Grealy increase his 'bag' by a further two goals.

NAVY CONTINUE IN WINNING VEIN

EAST LANC. WIN OVER THE RECREIO

LINCOLNS HOLD ATHLETIC

IN a clash fraught with thrills but marred by poor conditions, the Police retained the leadership of the premier soccer league yesterday when they beat the Club by the odd goal in three, all three goals being scored from the penalty spot! The Lincolns provided the only surprise in the Senior Division, trouncing the Saints by six clear goals, while the Navy retained their 100 per cent. record by beating the East Lancs.

The poor condition of the grounds caused several serious upsets in the Second Division, the Navy being surprisingly held to a draw, sharing six goals with the Eastern, while the Lincolns held the Athletic to a goalless draw in an exciting struggle. The biggest surprise, however, was provided by the East Lancs, who took both points off the Recreio by an odd goal margin.

In the Third Division the referee failed to make an appearance for the clash between the Lincolns and the Sappers, and the game was consequently postponed, while both the Fusiliers and the Chinese Police, who are leading the Division, retained their places.

R.A.O.C. AND R.A.S.C. WIN AT LAST

Kowloon Swamped By Seven Clear Goals

DUFFIELD'S "HAT TRICK"

The R.A.O.C. and R.A.S.C. recorded their first win of the season in a decisive manner yesterday when they beat the Kowloon F.C. Juniors by 7 goals to all in their Second Division soccer fixture.

Harris, on Kowloon's right wing, sent over some good centres but the soldiers' reliable defence soon relieved any anxiety, and the Kowloon men were given very few chances of becoming dangerous near goal.

Clarke, the winners' centre forward, gave a fine display and was ably supported by Duffield, who secured his 'hat trick' by a centre-half fed his forwards in perfect style.

3 Up At Interval

At half time the winners had secured three goals through Clarke (2) and Vaughan. In the second half Duffield netted the fourth goal following a splendid pass from Eycott. Just afterwards Clarke failed to convert a penalty, Olson saving. Shortly afterwards Digby sent a long shot down field and Duffield netted his second, and the winners succeeded in adding two further goals (one from Humphreys, the Kowloon back, who had the misfortune to net into his own goal), and Duffield completing his 'hat-trick'.

ATHLETIC HOLD LINCOLNS

Large Crowd Witness Goalless Draw

There was a good attendance at Caroline Hill Stadium yesterday afternoon to witness the Second Division soccer game between Chinese Athletic and the Lincolns, a very keenly contested game which ended in a goalless draw.

On a soft ground and with a heavy ball, the play of both teams was good, particularly that of the military team.

The second half was by far the brightest. The Athletic opened strongly and Taylor was called upon on numerous occasions to save from Young Kan Po and Au Ping Ming. The Lines, believing that attack is the best defence, took play to the Athletic goal where Li Kwok Ki was called into action to save a good shot from Setters, and on one occasion Au Ping Ming became very exciting, both defences but kicked wildly and the ball exclaiming during these alternate went wide.

OFFICIAL MESSAGE RECEIVED

Side Due Here On November 7

ONE FAST, BUT ERRATIC, BOWLER

F. "Peanut" Marshall, Shanghai's leading jockey, an attractive batsman and a good fieldman, will not be accompanying Donald Leach's Shanghai Interport cricket team to the Colony next month, it was learned yesterday.

A cable giving the final composition of the Northern team was received by the Hong Kong Cricket Club yesterday as follows:

D. W. LEACH (CAPTAIN)
R. BOOTH
G. B. ELLIOTT
E. P. HUMPHREYS
J. C. JENKINS
S. R. KERNANI
J. B. H. LECKIE
PAT MADAR
HARRY MADAR
L. F. STOKES
E. M. P. WILLIAMS

Twelfth man:—E. C. Baker. The team is expected to arrive here on November 7 by the R.M.S. Empress of Asia.

Leach, who has played in every Interport match since the war, except when he was on leave in 1925, is a leg break bowler of an exceptionally high standard and one of the best batsmen east of Suez. Booth is a very useful all-rounder and a brilliant fielder. Elliott is a fast medium right hand bowler and a big hitter.

Humphreys is a good forcing batsman and a change bowler. Jenkins, on his day, is likely to run through any side with his right hand off spinners. Kernani is a very attractive batsman who learned his cricket at the Hong Kong University. He is also the wicket-keeper.

Grimmett Of Side

Lockie is a sound batsman and a safe fieldman. Pat Madar is the Grimmett of the side and a very difficult batsman to dislodge. Harry Madar is a useful batsman and a brilliant fielder.

Stokes, the opening batsman, is Shanghai's Bradman and a useful change bowler. "Carnera" Williams is a good batsman and a very fast, but erratic, bowler. Baker, the manager of the side, was down here in 1927, the year Hong Kong won by 3 wickets, despite an innings for 146 by Capt. E. I. M. Barrett, the Northerners' skipper.

SECRET LEPER COMMUNITY

England's Lazaretto In Corner Of Essex

Sisters Of Mercy Who Tend The Afflicted

(By IAN COSTER)

A SIAMESE prince, stricken with leprosy 3,000 years ago, was cast out. He lived in the forest, eating roots and berries and the dried nuts of the chaulmoogra bush.

The disease gradually left him, and he returned to his palace, clean and whole.

That is folk lore. But chaulmoogra or hydnocarpus oil and its derivatives are still the main weapons used in the fight against leprosy. Experiments have been made with methylene dyes, with vaccines and with preparations from arsenic and mercury, but science is still forced to rely on a palliative almost as old as the disease itself.

There are 5,000,000 lepers in the British Empire. That is the estimate of one of the world authorities, Dr. R. G. Cochrane, who has resigned his secretaryship of the British Empire Leprosy Relief Association to go to India to continue his study of the disease.

Lepers in Britain Dr. Cochrane believes there are between 50 and 100 lepers in the British Isles. The number can only be guessed at, because leprosy is not a notifiable disease. The doctor thinks that an effort should be made to take an accurate census "and to ascertain whether the position is such that official action should be taken."

It is surprising to find that sufferers from a disease regarded with such apprehension are free to mingle with us, lead their ordinary lives and follow their occupations.

Legends, traditions of the Middle Ages, the Bible, tend to give a wrong perspective, say the scientists. In modern conditions of civilisation leprosy does not tend to spread. If no precautions are taken the danger to the adult population of contagion is negligible, but physicians who come across the disease advise the usual measures taken against tuberculosis.

Even though I knew that, I was slightly surprised to hear that a party of lepers came to London to see the Jubilee procession. They travelled by themselves, and had their meals in private.

They came from their bungalow homes in a secluded corner of Essex. For the past 21 years an average of 12 sufferers have lived there, attended by the Sisters of the Church of England Community of St. Giles.

St. Giles is the special patron of lepers, as well as of beggars and cripples.

Secret Community

This community endeavour to keep their locality a secret. They take this attitude because of the sensitiveness of the patients; mental anguish brings on the fevers of the disease.

I went to Essex to see the community. A Sister in grey robes in a lane directed me to a white house with green shutters. It was once a farmhouse and is now the home of the Mother and Sisters. Part of the stables have been converted into a chapel.

Behind the house were a cluster of bungalows, yellow-faced and red-roofed, pleasant places in the sunshine with flowers and vegetables about them, and a tennis court and hens fluffing out their feathers.

A B.B.C. voice breathed over the place from a radio set and six or seven well-grown hogs grunted in answer from a yard at the back. A man, big-framed, with a healthy masculine step, came out of one of the bungalows and walked up the lane, evidently to post a letter he carried.

He was a leper. But there was nothing in his face or carriage to show it to the passer-by.

Neural Leprosy Some of the others are not so fortunate. But there is nothing of the Biblical snow-whiteness about them; that disease is unknown among Europeans.

Leprosy takes two general forms. The neural type attacks the nerves, beginning with the tiny nerves of the skin. The victim gradually loses all sense of pain. At first, pin-pricks would be felt, but the touch of cotton-wool would be unnoticed.

Dr. Cochrane found two sufferers, one a woman who burned herself with a hot-water bottle and a man who burned himself at his work, both without feeling any pain.

The nerve destruction goes on, the optic nerve is killed, the muscles, deprived of nerve control, clamp the hands and twist the face, but the sufferer may live for a normal span of life.

One man has been at the Essex community for 15 years and he is not badly affected. One of the two women there is affected only in one toe.

Dermal Leprosy Disfigurement comes with the other type of leprosy, the dermal, in which nodules form on the skin and gradually spread over the whole body, distorting the face, enlarging the hands and limbs, and usually causing death within eight years. Often both types occur together.

Several of the Essex patients can no longer read because of the affection of their optic nerves. But they are encouraged to take exercise and have hobbies. One man raises pige. Another runs a poultry farm and keeps the homes supplied with eggs. A third is a wireless expert, and he keeps all the sets in order.

All of them, with possibly one exception, have caught the disease abroad, in South Africa, the West Indies, India, several having been soldiers. Leprosy, according to Dr. Cochrane, can be latent for 40 years.

A man may return from the tropics in perfect health, marry and have children, and then the latent disease may reveal itself in some small way. It is on record that one man did his ordinary heavy work in the Midlands for years after his service in India, and then one day received a cut on the face. The wound would not heal. A doctor was called in, and he found the man had leprosy.

No Proved Specific

One mother in the Essex community takes care of her son, who was found to be suffering from the disease when he was at school. Though she has lived there for years, she has not caught it. Another woman, a trained nurse, is allowed to look after her husband.

Not one of the sisters or doctors or helpers connected with the homes has ever caught leprosy. It seems to lose its contagiousness in England, though Dr. Cochrane believes that there is an element of risk in children coming in contact with infective cases.

Is there a cure for leprosy? One man was discharged last month from the home, but there is no proof of absolute cure. America has the world's best-equipped leprosarium, or lazaretto, as it is known in Canada. It is at Carville, Louisiana, and has had 801 patients in the 14 years of Federal administration.

Of that number 179 have been sent out with verdict: "Leprosy arrested and the individual no longer a danger to public health." Fourteen of these have relapsed and been readmitted.

Science cannot yet claim to have conquered one of the world's oldest and most mysterious diseases.

CHRIST AS SHOWN IN THE GOSPELS A KING, YET SERVING LINK OF KINSHIP BETWEEN GOD AND MAN

(By Rev. J. N. LEWIS BRYAN)

If you were asked personally which of the four Gospels made the greatest appeal to your mind, what would the answer be? Each of them has a message of its own, quite apart from the group of facts common to them all. Each has its own distinctive touch.

Matthew tells us of a Jesus who is a King. For His own purpose He chose to live as a peasant, but He was of royal blood, of long and unbroken kingly heritage. He showed kingly power in His actions, kingly wisdom in His teachings, and a kingly spirit in His gracious friendliness and kindness to others. He was accepted as King by those who understood Him best. It was about this kingship that He was questioned by Pilate, the title of King was written above His head when they hanged Him upon His Cross, as a king they laid Him to rest in the garden tomb of the rich man in Jerusalem.

A Serving King

Mark adds a touch to this picture—a touch of rich colour. This King of ours is a serving King. In the ordinary view of things, the kings of the earth are served kings. There have been, and are, kings who have rendered to their people a fine high service—the world-wide popularity of King George V in this year of his Jubilee is due chiefly to this one fact—but the overpowering impression of the crowd is that kings are superior beings; who must be obeyed implicitly. They are to be served.

But Mark's picture shows us a King whose passion is to serve. The service which He draws out from His followers is drawn out by His own warm serving spirit towards them. The words of the royal coat of arms are "Not to be ministered unto, but to minister."

There is yet warmer colouring in Luke's picture. This serving King is nearest of kin to us. He is not only of blood-royal, but of the blood human, bone of our bone, life of our common life. He came to us through the union of God's power with human consent and human function, never known before or repeated since. He shows us a Jesus with a tenderness of human sympathy with us all, with an outlook as broad as humanity, sharing our common life, allowing no sectional prejudices to shut out His warm sympathy, knowing our human temptations with a reality and intensity that wets His brow.

This King who serves is a Man. He is our "fellow," sharing the board and bread of our common experience. So He is kin to us, in heritage and experience, in blood and in spirit.

The Link Of Kinship

John's share in the partnership message adds a simple touch of colouring that makes it the masterpiece of the four. The King who serves, and is nearest of kin to us, is also nearest of kin to God. He is not only of the blood royal and human, but also of the blood divine. He was God before the calendars were made, before the world was. He came on an errand to this earth and, when the work was done, went back to His Father, bearing on His person the marks of His fidelity to the Father's errand.

John gives us in his gospel, in simple clear lines, the story of the pull that has ever tugged at the heart-strings of God, and how He answered it. It was a sort of blind pull. Man needs God though he does not always know it, merely that he needs something. It does not enter into his mind that he will never get out of his tight corner unless God pulls him out, so he goes stumbling down the streets of life, sometimes with the polish of culture, sometimes in rags and dirt.

The Answer

Jesus was God's answer. We had broken the entail of our heritage. He cast in His lot with us, and drew us back and up and in. So we come into the family of the King, and we are kindest in character when we are Christ-liest in spirit and in action. Towel and basin and bended knee and comforted pilgrim feet—that is our family crest. Black skin and white, yellow and brown, slum-alley and palace, below the equator and above it—all are our brothers. We reach our highest when, like Him, we stoop lowest to help up someone else. We are nearest to God in character when we are nearest in touch with these men.

John did not always understand his Master, but he never failed in his trust in Him, or in his fidelity to Him. His fiery, stormy nature was swayed by his passion for Him. This alone explains the man and his career. It explains the Gospel of an old man's memories across the years.

When the end was near, he realised that he was the last one left who had talked with Jesus face to face, and no one else could talk of Him as he could; hence this Gospel preserved to us across the centuries. But though it is the last of the original Gospels, it is by no means the last that has been written.

What Is Your Gospel?

There is a Gospel according to you. What kind of a story is it? The crowd knows. Though they do not read their Bibles overmuch these days, they read pretty clearly the Gospels according to us. We cannot always afford to bind them in costly leather, but that does not really matter. The best binding is shoe-leather. The Gospel of the Son of God is at its best when it is being tramped out on the common streets of life. Its love is warmest and its power most resistless as it comes to others in the common give-and-take of daily touch in home and shop, office and street.

Of course there was a special touch of inspiration in the original Gospels. The Holy Spirit brooded over the men who wrote them in a very special way. They are the standard works. But just as they differ from each other, so will ours be different. The Gospels which we write with the pens of our lives and bind together with the shoe-leather of our daily rounds will be coloured by our personalities, our habits of thought, the tinge of the experiences through which we have passed. That is the Master's plan, and very often it is the crowd's only chance of ever hearing and knowing who and what He is.

The PASSING HOUR

THIS is certainly an era of surprises. That the war going on in Africa should produce some kind of artistic record is inevitable, and after reading of the outbreak of cinemas devoted entirely to newsreels, many of which vie with the evening papers in up-to-dateness, we have been expecting to hear of the London production of thrilling adventures in the capture of Adowa, even if we did not get some early stories screened in Hong Kong. Sketches and even pictures could also be taken for granted. But if asked to say what would be the last artistic form to be brought into the service of the war, we should have guessed Grand Opera. The most modern background of any of the operas we usually have a chance to see is perhaps the Quartier Latin of 50 years ago in "La Bohème," or the days of idealised Japan in "Madame Butterfly." The other extreme goes back behind any history to Wotan and Siegfried. Our guess would have been completely wrong.

A WAR OPERA

SO far back as a month ago there was produced an opera in Paris called "Nimbo," of which the scene is the Italian camp in Abyssinia, with a nimbus of heroism and romance thrown round the Italian soldier. The opera had a successful first night, and appears to be having something of a run. That is quick work. If one recalls the agony endured by Wagner before some of the plots of "The Ring" were clearly defined, and then the further years of working out the themes, and the delays in finding a backer to put up the money, and all the intrigues before the cast was decided, we must admit that Opera has established a record. Of sickness, at any rate. Even Musical Comedy is rarely topical, and is many months in the larval stage.

WHY PARIS?

NEXT to the record in the "do-it-now" spirit of the day, the most surprising thing is that it should have been done in Paris and not in Naples or Milan. Rome is not the Italian leader in these things, for the Roman population cannot show box-office returns to match the San Carlo at Naples or the Scala at Milan. Most of the troops have embarked at Naples, and there seems to be some indication that apart from the "tumult and the shouting" that greets the appearances of Il Duce, there is not that enthusiasm for the war amongst the sort of people who support Opera. There is also a suggestion that France, who had had a wave of friendship with Italy since the agreement of January last, was prepared to back Italy with enthusiasm that was only checked by the unexpected emergence of the League from a long coma.

MILITARY MUSIC

A WELL-KNOWN musical critic who is also a very fervent pacifist said recently that a military band was the most insidious enemy of the human race. We cannot deny the infectious inspiration of a good band. It is all the more striking because as a rule the words to which the march has been put are so flat as to be completely forgotten. Who, for instance, when he hears "The British Grenadiers" thinks of "They talk of Alexander" and all the rest of it? By what quaint fate was it that the author of the words of "Tipperary" came to have a

MARCHING SONGS

THE Marching Song is of course different from the March that is written for the Band; it succeeds because it is suitable for keeping thousands of tired and thoroughly unmusical men in a cheery frame of mind. More thousands of English-speaking men have marched to "John Brown's Body" than to any other tune. "Pack up your Troubles in your Old Kit-bag" had a good run, and there is always a place for such songs as the commemoration of a certain "Made-moiselle from Armentieres."

THE MARSEILLAISE

IT may be said of all these songs that they sprang from the circumstances of the moment. A much more select collection could be made of the songs that have not been made by history, but have made history. "Die Wacht am Rhein" would certainly be included, with its suggestion of steadfast immobility under attack, and the Russian Czarist National Anthem has a deep tone of religious dedication, which is not to be found in the dismal "Internationale." But "La Marseillaise" is in a class by itself. As it spread upwards from the South of France it recruited more men than any recruiting sergeant or eloquent reformer. It carried the French armies over Europe, for it not merely makes you want to march, but to fight. Italy is an emotional country, but it would be very surprising if the Abyssinian adventure produced a song like that.

H. K. ENGINEERING JOURNAL

Publication From The University

SEPTEMBER ISSUE

The September number of the Hong Kong University Engineering Journal is full of good material, most of which should prove of great interest not merely to engineers but to laymen also. In particular, the first two articles, one on recent engineering developments in Canton, by Mr. Man Shu-sing, M.Sc., M.A., Commissioner of Public Works to the Canton Municipality, the other on difficulties of dam construction, by Mr. W. J. E. Binnie, M. Inst. C.E., are written in clear language which can be "understood of the people," and the first-named is admirably illustrated with photographs which form an admirable complement to the article.

The same may be said of Flight Lieutenant W. F. Murray's article on "Aviation: Past, Present and Future," in which he traces the history of flight from Montgolfier's hot-air balloon and Sir George Cayley's design for a heavier-than-air machine—in the early years of the nineteenth century—to the giant machines of to-day and future possibilities. Other articles of a more technical nature go to make up an excellent issue.

Church Leaders Appeal
In a recommendation by the Archbishops of Canterbury, York, Armagh, Dublin and Wales, and other leaders of the Churches at Home these words appear:—

"The need for a greater revenue for Haig's Fund is vitally important as the increasing age of those who served in the War brings a corresponding increase in the calls for help, and accordingly we would strongly urge upon those in whose power lies the allocation of Remembrance Day collections that, wherever possible, these might be appropriately and usefully devoted to further the beneficent work of the British Legion."

Winter Sessions

WITH November the winter sessions of our societies begin, and full programmes are issued by all the Secretaries who have not been too busy with golf and cricket, and other exhausting occupations, or have been unable to overcome the climatic tendency to conserve their energy. There is abundant opportunity for discussion provided by the University Union, the Y.M.C.A., the English Association, and various societies connected with the Churches. The opportunities, plentiful as they are, are inadequate to the subjects that seem to call for open debate, and for illuminating introductory lectures or essays. We Hongkongites are at the parting of the ways, not merely from the point of view of the traveller or the tourist, who will no doubt enlighten us at an occasional Rotary tiffin, but also from the cultural point of view referred to in many eloquent perorations. Outpost of Civilization: Sentinel of the British Empire: Meeting of East and West: Lighthouse of the Orient. When we reach that stage we begin to sidget, and light up a cigarette. We want to hear something new, and something that will enable us to form an intelligent opinion on the way of the world as it affects our daily life. It is sad but true that we do not look forward to the subsequent discussion with any optimism. We know pretty well what each of our friends will say, and how long he will take to say it. But the odd thing is, that we have heard him say it much better, and certainly much more frankly, at his own dinner table or at the Club to which he may belong.

We are proud of having no censorship, of having unlimited freedom of speech, of being a harmonious community in spite of including representatives of all the races and all the religions and all the theories. But we shall not hear their views expressed in any public meeting. Why? There is of course the motive of tact, but it does appear probable that if anyone goes to a meeting to hear a question discussed he might like to hear it well discussed. Is it true that we are unable to listen to opinions from which we differ, even fundamentally, without losing our tempers? If so, we have learned the lesson of free speech very imperfectly. Then there is the motive of business interest, sometimes frankly confessed. "Why don't you get up and say so?" receives the answer "I'm a business man". Add to all these motives the strong objection nowadays to rhetoric and eloquence, which holds back those who could make the best speeches if they could only get stirred up enough.

There is certainly in Hong Kong another element in our social life, that makes it appear something like a breach of discipline to get up and say "I do not agree with any of the previous speakers". We are not only a garrison town, but a naval port, and there is something of the military organisation even about our civil administration, though it does not doubt creep in unconsciously and without any intention to impose a Mussolinian system of deference. The net result is that most of those who go to meetings sit with their own thoughts and wish that somebody else would get up and express them. That of course does not happen, and every resolution is adopted unanimously, and everybody goes home rather bored.

Of course it is our own fault. It is not at all likely that any terrible consequences would be visited on the head of anybody who held unconventional views on the subjects we read of in books and reviews. But it is certainly a pity that there are not more of us that have the courage of their convictions. If an opinion is absurd the best thing is to express it and have it demolished by someone who is wiser or better informed. That at any rate is the principle of free speech.

TRADE PROBLEMS IN PACIFIC AREA

CONFERENCE TO BE HELD IN HONOLULU

ROUND TABLE DISCUSSIONS TO SEEK SOLUTION

AN opportunity for business representative business men, representing the Pacific area, to get together for an analytical discussion of problems which need attention to promote better trade will be afforded at the Honolulu joint meeting of the Western Division of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and the Pacific Foreign Trade Council. This meeting, called for November 27 to 30, marks the first effort, since the disturbance of world economic conditions, that has been made to assemble the business interests of trans-Pacific countries for the purpose of formulating a comprehensive programme for the betterment of Pacific trade.

Mr. A. F. Haines, President of the Pacific Foreign Trade Council, and Vice President of the American Mail Line, is inviting business men and organisations of the Pacific countries to attend and also to submit opinions and recommendations on matters that will assist the Council in arriving at conclusions which will promote trade recovery and general economic well-being. Mr. Haines is one of 61 Directors of the Pacific Foreign Trade Council, whose experience in Pacific shipping and foreign trade covers 60 years or more. All are substantial and representative business men, representing diversified interests, but with a unity of aim toward bringing about concord of thought and action on the important matters affecting Pacific trade. It is the opinion of these men that frank expressions even on controversial subjects, and an exchange of these among business men, are the best means of accomplishing progress in foreign trade.

Subjects On Agenda

The sessions of the Pacific Foreign Trade Council will deal with such subjects as "Relief from Fluctuating Exchanges", "Trade Barriers Affecting Cargo, Passengers and Ships", "Unnecessary Exactions on Imported Goods", "The Future of Philippine Island Trade", "The Changing Trends of the Pacific Trade", the "Proposed Reciprocal Trade Agreements with and among Pacific Countries", "The Relationship of Empire Preferential Policy upon Trade between Pacific Countries".

Many of these will be round-table discussions so that an expression of opinion will be secured from as many sources as possible.

The Western Division of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in a broad sense, is also centering its programme around the problems of the Pacific Area. "The Pacific Air Lines and Foreign Trade" will be carried by Stanley Kennedy, President of the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce, President Harper Sibley will present "A Business Programme for Business Recovery", Frederick J. Koster, President, California Barrell Company and a Director of the Pacific Foreign Trade Council, will speak on "American Fundamentals".

Adjustments Needed

The membership of the two organisations arranging this conference includes influential business men and commercial organisations of Western Canada, the United States and Mexico. According to Mr. Haines, these leaders are desirous of securing the ideas of business men of trans-Pacific countries in the belief that through these commercial channels much can be accomplished in adjustments which business needs made to meet changing conditions. Registrations and expressions of opinions are being mailed to the Pacific Foreign Trade Council, care of the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce, commercial organisations and Chambers of Commerce, both American and native, at the principal cities and ports in Asia and Oceania are co-operating, and those seeking further information on the joint meeting of the Western Division of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and the Pacific Foreign Trade Council in Honolulu, November 27 to 30, 1935, may refer to the commercial organisations in their locality.

Mrs. Keeler examines a sample of handwriting under the microscope. She considers the instrument a valuable aid in her work.

THE solution of crime to-day is becoming more and more a scientific process. One of the most important branches of scientific crime detection is that of handwriting and typewriting identification. A leader in this science in Chicago is youthful Mrs. Katherine Applegate Keeler, member of the staff of the scientific crime detection laboratory of the Northwestern university law school. Her explanation of methods used in her work is both interesting and educational.

In the first place, the art of detecting disguised or forged handwriting and of positively identifying suspected machine writing, in Mrs. Keeler's opinion, is based on a simple principle.

"Ordinary observation and experience," she said, "teach that different ways of doing things produce different results. In addition they yield certain evaluations of impersonal or material evidence as compared with whimsical human testimony."

As an example she pointed out that it is easy to distinguish the tracks of a running animal from those of a walking animal, or to tell whether the wind was blowing from the north or from the south during a snowstorm.

Thus when an expert examines a suspected document containing either handwriting or typewriting he sees certain signs which lead to certain conclusions.

"A person's handwriting," said Mrs. Keeler, "is comparable to his speaking voice. Over a period of years every person develops certain peculiar characteristics of speech and of writing which are unlike those of any other person."

Examining a piece of anonymous handwriting, an expert first identifies it as the work of an outsider or a local person. There are certain national characteristics which the expert readily recognises. Other classified characteristics may indicate to the expert that the author was of a certain age or sex and had a certain occupation, education, or special training. Finally, if handwriting of a certain suspect is submitted, the expert, by comparing the anonymous writing with that of the suspect, can determine beyond doubt if the suspect was the author of the anonymous writing or not.

IN spite of the fact that thousands of persons have learned to write from one system, the expert has no difficulty in recognising at sight, or under the microscope, individual characteristics.

"It must be remembered," Mrs. Keeler pointed out, "that in addition to numbers, punctuation marks, and miscellaneous signs there are fifty-two characters to be made; each one of these may have from two to seven or eight strokes, and each stroke may vary as to length, height, slant, closeness to the preceding and following strokes, manner of joining, beginning and terminating letters, spacing, direction, thickness, and shading. Considering these possibilities, it would indeed be remarkable if two handwritings duplicated each other in their combination of variations."

The expert is aided in reaching his conclusion by the knowledge that even if a forger manages to reproduce or a dissembler avoids all the little details, twists, and peculiarities which are the result of complicated co-ordination that has be-

In discussing the problems of identification of machine writing Mrs. Keeler observed that the process is not hampered by attempted disguise or imitation.

"This particular science rests largely on precision and the logical use of a great mass of detailed data," she said.

About thirty-odd makes of typewriters have been manufactured commercially since the seventies. In one respect or another the type faces on each of these makes of machines have been different from all the others. Consequently the work of a certain make can be readily identified.

* * *

FURTHER, at various periods in the improvement and development of typewriters certain changes were made in the type design of each make. The date of manufacture of a particular model of a particular make can, therefore, be identified by its work. A 1926 model, for income unconscious and habitual through the long practice of the genuine writer, he must go so slowly and carefully that the lines of his work are drawn instead of written.

By use of chemicals Mrs. Keeler is enabled to restore erasures of a certain type of commonly used ink.

These lines will show, as the result of the conscious guidance of the pen, changing movement impulses, or ink gathering where the pen has slowed down at a particularly difficult point.

Attempts to duplicate the delicate, rapid changes in weight on the pen will result in an awkward, wobbly line. The lines which begin and end letters, instead of tapering, as do those made by a pen moving rapidly as it is lifted from or put down on the paper, will be abrupt and stubby, thus revealing an obvious falseness.

"The best forgeries I have seen," said Mrs. Keeler, "were imitations of handwriting made by a portrait painter whose skilful reproductions of form were made as nearly as possible at the same speed and with the same pressure as that of the writer whose signature he was imitating."

"Fortunately, most forgers are not artists. Their work is hampered further by the necessity of making good a certain signature on a certain piece of paper on the first attempt."

stance, cannot be used to write a document dated 1925 without recording a mark of fraudulence.

Every typewriter which has been used also has developed certain characteristics, such as worn letters and other peculiarities which enable the expert to identify positively samples of writing from the same machine.

"It should by no means be thought," concluded Mrs. Keeler, "that handwriting and typewriting are the only features for examination in a questioned document case."

"Ink, paper, erasures, folds, perforations, glue, and typewriter ribbon all play their parts in revealing the bungling slips committed by the meddler and fixer of documents."

While an undergraduate at Northwestern university not so many years ago Mrs. Keeler became interested in her speciality. Her proficiency as a handwriting expert was recognised and she gained further training at the crime detection laboratory of the university law school. She became a member of its staff as examiner of questioned documents four years ago. Also she had become the wife of one of the officials of the laboratory, Dr. Leonard Keeler, inventor of a scientific "lie detector."

Thrift Shop in Colony

AN interesting new experiment is about to be tried in Hong Kong on the first of November—a Thrift Shop will be opened under the auspices of the Women's International Club. This means that from now on you will have somewhere to send your white elephants; somewhere, too, to search for what you need at a reasonable price. So, whether you are a member of the Club or not, begin to collect those useable, saleable objects you no longer need and give someone else a chance of having them. As long as the price you name is reasonable all will be well!

Already the Thrift Shop has been promised a collection of evening and afternoon frocks, evening bags and costume jewellery, pictures, chairs, and even lacquer cabinets. In short, anything from a needle to an automobile will be welcome! But an interesting feature of the Thrift Shop is that it will also be for the use of those ladies who can make things themselves. So if you are handy with your needle or your fingers or your paint brush, if you can dress dolls, paint Christmas cards, or do things even more unusual, this is the place to bring your creations. The room to be used for the Thrift Shop is just across the hall from the Club premises in the Gloucester Building.

With Christmas approaching this is just the time to start such an experiment and surely to have great success with it. The idea is not a new one; even in Tokyo a shop run on these lines has been in existence for some years now.

First Birthday Party

LITTLE Sheila Howard, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howard, had her first birthday last week and was given a party to celebrate the occasion. Her guests, all quite as tiny as herself, were Billy Greene, Helo Reck, Allen Haspes, Alex Garrod, Suzanne Garrod, Margot Johnson and Charles Denison. But no, they were not all quite as tiny, for, of course, the mothers were there as well. And if the truth must be told, it was probably the mothers who enjoyed the birthday cake! However, the babies were not without their treats; they were all given celluloid toys of quaint shapes and enjoyed such novelties as lemons and apples that squeaked to the touch!

Visitors From Baguio

INTERESTING visitors to the Colony at the moment are Mr. and Mrs. G. Fairchild from Baguio and Manila. The Fairchilds have a lovely hillside home in Baguio, and Mrs. Fairchild, who is keen on gardening, has a very lovely garden of which she is justly proud.

Purple And Gold At Repulse

A DRESS of a rich shade of purple, finished at the waist with a broad gold leather belt .... and there you have a touch of the popular Repulse Bay dance last Saturday evening. This unusual frock was worn by Miss M. Beauchaire, on whom it looked most effective.

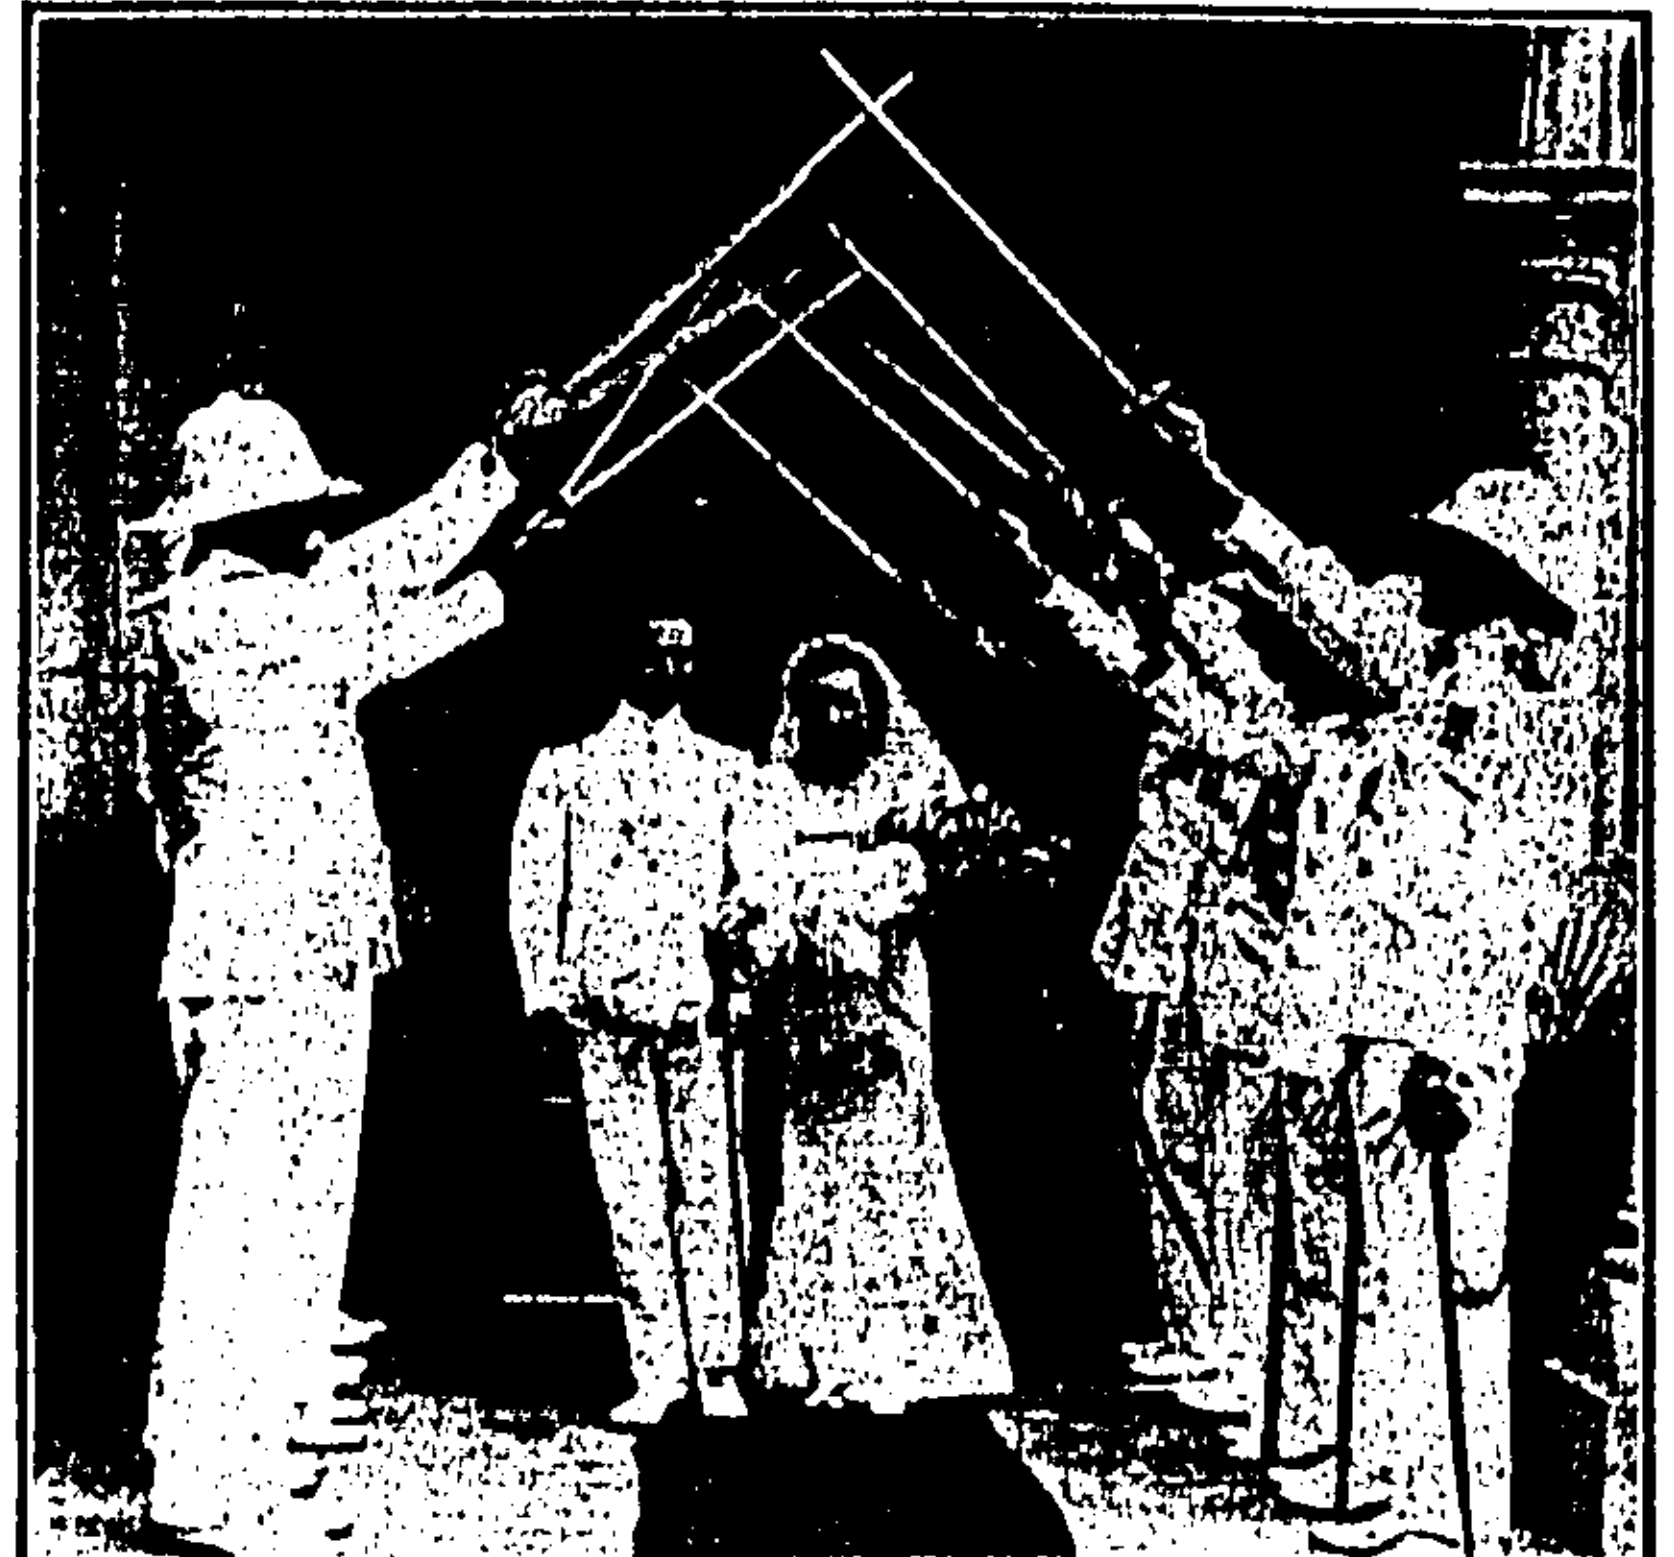

Now to tell you of the host of lovely frocks at this ever popular rendezvous? Impossible! However, just a hint .... There were those who chose black, among them Mrs. Moddie-Haddie and Mrs. Hatch, and those who chose very jazz patterns were Mrs. St. Clair Ford, Miss B. Hebling, Miss S. M. Swift and Miss K. Moir. Miss R. Smalley's georgette frock was cleverly trimmed with large red bows and Mrs. L. B. Woolley chose bright buttons to give that finishing touch.

About TOWN

Robert Letroy Ripley, the 24-year-old world-famous cartoonist, above, sold his first drawing for U.S. $8 when at the age of 14. To-day he is with Hearst newspapers and his drawings are being syndicated to all the leading journals throughout the world. Commencing from to-morrow, as a daily feature, Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" series will be published exclusively in the China Mail.

The Governor Nominate

THE official announcement of the appointment of Sir Andrew Caldecott is in the line of policy introduced by Lord Pasfield, that Colonial Governors shall be chosen from those who have already gained experience in the Department itself. Sir Andrew has, as a matter of fact, not only had administrative experience of a general character, but has, during the whole of his tenure of office in Malaya as Governor, had to contend with the problems of depression which we can provide for his consideration in Hong Kong. When Sir William Peel arrived, he was provided with an impressive programme of "things wanted." They have mostly been put in hand, and at any rate for the next year the programme will consist of finishing them off and paying the bills.

Sir Andrew is a cadet of the Swettenham period, selected on the principle of choice which was defined in a much debated confession that his object was to get hold of the heads of the Public Schools, or at any rate men of that type. It would be a very interesting enquiry to trace how many of them had made good, and how many had remained in public service. At any rate recent developments seem to show, both in India and elsewhere, that the rigid confinement to the selection of "examination wallahs" has not been considered to be a success.

The Examination Test

ALL our problems are old problems. Amongst them are still the question of what career to advise a boy to take up, and the later question of how to choose from amongst a number of candidates those who will develop into leaders. A classic reference on this subject is the famous will of Cecil Rhodes, in which he expands to many paragraphs on the qualifications for his scholarships. He was anxious to avoid the examination test as far as possible, but insists on a high academic standard. That is to be combined with distinction in sport, and also a high character, as shown by the respect of his schoolmates. The Rhodes scholars have done well on the whole, but no paragon has been found. During the early years there was complaint that very few took honours, though many got their Rugby blues. Lately the examination results have been better, and the athletics not so good. The results of voting at certain schools as to who was the most respected boy were conspicuously unsuccessful. After all there was nothing in the early careers of Nelson or Wolfe, or even Napoleon, to distinguish them from their mates. When Sir Walter Hely-Hutchinson was Governor of the Cape an old pal who had not seen him since schooldays met him on the street and with a hearty clap on the back greeted him with "Hello, Hely, got a job at last?"

At any rate, we can all unite in hoping that Sir Andrew's task will get easier as the months go past.

Dr. Reichelt's Return

AFTER his long pilgrimage of several months up in the Northern Provinces, which are just beginning to feel the Japanese control, Dr. Reichelt has been heartily welcomed back to his Hong Kong circle, and has resumed his weekly addresses in the little chapel under the Bishop's House. There is nobody in Hong Kong who can give us so much enlightenment on what the people of inland China are thinking. —COMMENTATOR.

How the Gibbs Fairies saved the Children's health

These children wouldn't clean their teeth so the decay imps made a factory to pump poison on to all the food they ate.

Then teacher told them about Gibbs, so the Gibbs Fairies pulled down the poison factory and drove out old Giant Decay.

Now the children are happy and healthy because Gibbs twice a day keeps their Ivory Castles so clean no poison can settle.

Gibbs Dentifrice makes teeth white and lovely for the present and safe for the future. Its fragrant antiseptic foam kills germs, dissolves film, washes away everything that could cause decay. Teeth are polished safely. The entire mouth refreshed and purified. Change to Gibbs today.

Club Soccer Casualties

G. S. (SLAB) GAMBLE has broken a blood vessel in the thigh and will be unable to play soccer for the Club first eleven for at least a month, while Sykes, the junior back, has pulled a muscle in his leg and will be out of the game for a fortnight.

Setback for Saints

"DARKIE" Lee, the St. Joseph's Football Club's brilliant right-winger, will be away from the Colony for about six of the most important League soccer weeks.

Team Without A Ground

THE St. Andrew's Hockey Club have not yet commenced their hockey practices as they have not yet secured a ground. The Ladies' section, however, hold their practices on the Diocesan Girls' School ground on Thursdays.

The Hong Kong Ladies are staging the majority of their practice games on the Naval pitch at Happy Valley.

The annual general meeting of the Hong Kong Ladies' Hockey Association will be held at the Gloucester Building, top floor, next Friday.

Colony Cricketers

AS the Interport cricket eleven to meet Shanghai at the J.K.C.C. on November 9 is likely to be selected this evening, following the trial on the K.C.C. ground, it would not perhaps be amiss to put forward the following suggested eleven in batting order:

E. C. Fincher, Lt. Bonavia or T. E. Pearce, T. A. Pearce, Capt. D. D. Pearce, A. H. Madar, A. W. Hayward, F. D. Pereira, A. R. Minu, G. R. M. Ricketts, A. C. I. Bowker and G. S. Dunkley.

Whitham Going Home

J. P. Whitham, well-known in Colony rugby circles, and an Interporter, is leaving for home in three weeks' time. He gave up rugby on account of an injury sustained last year during the Volunteer Sports. He was the Club's full-back and would have secured his Blue at Cambridge, but for an accident shortly before the Inter-Varsity match.

Unique Bowls Experience

IT is not often that two left-handed bowlers are seen playing opposite one another, but this took place during the visit of the Shanghai Interporters in one of the friendly matches, when C. W. Glover, of Shanghai, and D. M. Khan, of the Indian R.C., played lend for their respective rinks.

It is curious to reflect that not a single member of the successful Shanghai Interport bowls team was considered sufficiently talented to play Interport bowls against Hantow in Shanghai this year.

Russell, who is the holder, is the favourite for the title.

T. CALMAN, the Kowloon Dock R.C. bowler, and Mrs. Calman are expected to arrive back in the Colony from furlough next Wednesday.

G. H. FOWLER, former captain of the Y.M.C.A. hockey section, has resigned from the Association and is now likely to play for the Central British Association.

Recrelo's Hockey "Capture"

C. NOLASCO, who has represented Macao at hockey for the past two seasons, on the right wing, is now a resident in the Colony and is playing for the Club de Recrelo.

K.I.T.C. Reinforcements?

THE Kowloon Indians' Tennis Club are making a strong bid to retain the Mamak Hockey Tournament championship this season. Though they have lost the services of Gurbachan Singh, their centre-forward (he is now playing for the Radio Sports Club), they have still a good team, and it is rumoured that their side will include several players from the Hong Kong and Singapore Brigade, including Aya Singh, Dost Mahamed, Kishon Singh and Tara Singh.

Scott's Plucky Effort

MOST spectators at the Police-Lyceum soccer game a fortnight ago were surprised at the display of Scott at right-half, as he generally plays a good game, but few knew that he had a bad attack of malaria and was sent to hospital the same day. He is progressing well and is expected out of hospital soon.

Knock-Out Hockey Tourney

A SUGGESTION has been made to run a knock-out hockey competition at the end of the Mamak Hockey Tournament this season for the benefit of those teams who were too late to join the Tournament.

Chinese Police Hockey Team

SHOULD the Chinese Police take up hockey, as it is understood they intend to, they should be able to make fast progress as there are many players among the European and Indian Police whose advice and coaching would go a long way in assisting them to attain proficiency.

"Hong" Tennis Thrills

MESSRS. Gilman and Co., Ltd. (C. Blaker and L. Goldman) and Messrs. John D. Hutchison and Co., Ltd. (T. E. and T. A. Pearce), semi-finalists in the H.K.C.C. "Hong" Tennis Doubles, shared two sets on Wednesday night after Gilman's had won the first set at 8-6 and dropped the second at 6-8. Owing to darkness the match was then abandoned; it will now be replayed next Friday. The winners will meet Messrs. Deacons in the Final.

Indian Soccer Team

THE Indian Police, who have a good hockey team, are now contemplating forming a soccer side, and some 15 men have signified their desire to play. It will, however, be some time yet before we see them in the League.

Local Ball Players In Shanghai

J. KAU, J. Yeo and J. Mee, who represented Canton at baseball in the China National games at Shanghai, are all members of the Chinese baseball team which competed in the local league.

Two Club Champions

D. M. KHAN has won the Indian R.C. lawn bowls championship, while U. M. Omar has added the singles championship of Cralgengower to his numerous other successes.

Parker Out Of Hospital

PARKER, the Police soccer and hockey Interporter, who has been ill for some time, has now left hospital, but he will not be seen on the sports field for at least another month.

TERRITORIAL AIMS OF ITALY ARE CHECKED

CESSION OF TIGRE IMPOSSIBLE

NEGUS WOULD LOSE THRONE WITHIN 24 HOURS

Addis Ababa, yesterday.
A damper has been put on Italy's territorial ambitions in Abyssinia by the high authorities, who told Reuter that as long as the Italians occupy one square inch of Tigre territory there is not the slightest chance of peace, and added that if the Emperor agreed to cede Tigre to the Italians, even if financial compensations or an outlet to the sea were offered, he would lose his throne within 24 hours.

HOPEFUL FACTORS
London: There are a few factors at present which warrant the hope that within a few days the peace soundings known to be proceeding between Paris and Rome will reach bottom or that justification may arise to postpone the application of the sanctions already decided on when the Coordinating Committee meet on Thursday next to decide the date of operation.

This view is entertained in official circles from which it is also learned that Britain is being kept informed of the progress of the diplomatic exchanges, but may be said in the meantime to be no more than an observer. It is believed that Mr. Laval himself does not consider that the chief conversation has progressed sufficiently to reach the stage of practical politics.—Reuter.

Tsingtao, yesterday.
A miniature typhoon struck Tsingtao early yesterday morning.

The steamer Haiwah, of the Hung Mei Steamship Company, was blown onto the rocks at the entrance to the harbour, and badly holed.

A number of large junks were overturned, and three persons were drowned, while 30 are reported missing.

Trees were uprooted along the Bund, and throughout the city corrugated iron roofs and telephone wires were strewn along the roadside.—Reuter.

SOUTH-WEST AND NANKING

DECLARATION BY MEMBER OF POLITICAL COUNCIL

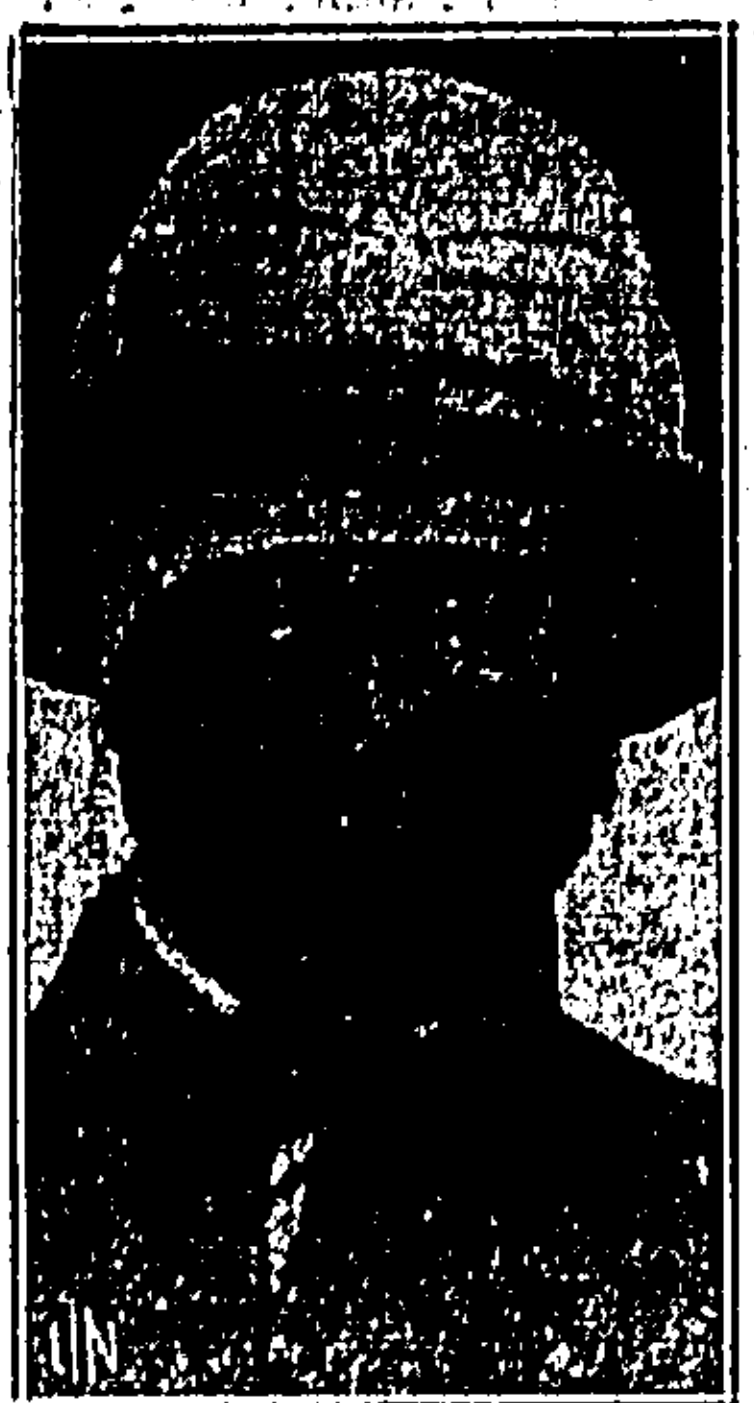

Canton, yesterday.
"If the Central Authorities accept our proposals, South-west members of the Central Committee will attend the Sixth Plenary Session," Mr. Teng Ching-yang, member of the South-west Political Council, told newspapermen to-day.

Declaring that the political situation is changing rapidly, Mr. Teng disclosed that all proposals are to be submitted by the 6th plenary session to the Fifth National Congress. The session will be opened on November 1 as scheduled.

Asked what the South-west will do if their proposals are turned down, Mr. Teng replied that definite steps will be taken to carry out the views of the South-west Kuomintang leaders.—Union News.

ELECTION FEVER IN BRITAIN

1,270 CANDIDATES FOR 615 SEATS

TWO MINISTERS NOT SEEKING RE-ELECTION

London, yesterday.
The King's proclamation dissolving Parliament and calling a new Parliament for November 20 are published as documents in the London Gazette.

All Party quarters are busy arranging their platforms and engagements for their election speeches and candidates and also despatching election literature to their constituents.

Already about 1,270 candidates are fixed for the 615 seats in the House of Commons. The Ministerial Party have 563 candidates, including 498 Conservatives, 42 Liberal Nationals and 20 National Labour.

The Opposition Party have 710 candidates, comprising 530 Labour, 150 Liberals and 30 Independent Labour Party.

Two Ministers are not seeking re-election, Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell and Mr. D. Jamieson, K.C., Lord Advocate of Scotland, who has been appointed a Judge.—Reuter.

PEASANTS BREACH KIANGSU DYKE

Conservancy Guards Overpowered

MANY VILLAGES FLOODED

Haichow, yesterday.
Fear-stricken over the threatened inundation of their farms, peasants of the Euanyu district, Kiangsu, near here took up arms when the authorities refused to breach a dyke as a means of relieving the pressure of the overflowing Yellow River.

On a frail embankment a peasant mob, equipped with antique fire-arms, spears and pitchforks, drove off the guards from the dykes after a two-hour battle and frenziedly dug a gap which released the torrent from the Yellow River—"China's Sorrow"—on scores of hitherto unaffected villages.

Provincial troops hastily dispatched to the scene dispersed the rioters and repaired the breach. The Yellow River flood waters continue to pile up in the fertile valleys of northern Kiangsu and 1,000,000 persons, according to official estimates, have been made homeless.—Union News.

ABYSSINIAN ATTACK FAILS ON ADOWA FRONT

Ethiopians Waiting For Reinforcements

BOMBING PLANES BEING SENT FROM CAPITAL

Rome, yesterday.
The Abyssinian attack led by Ras Seyoum, which was designed to turn the Italian right wing on the Adowa front, has been repulsed, according to a report from Asmara. Ras Seyoum has now withdrawn the Abyssinian forces in the direction of the River Ghera, a tributary of the Takkaze.

On the southern front it is claimed that the Italians checked an advance attack on Mustahil.

According to prisoners captured, the Abyssinians are awaiting reinforcements, including two bombing planes, from Addis Ababa.

An official communique states that Italian irregular troops occupied a village named Callato, which is the chief centre of the Shobell region of the southern front.—Reuter.

LORD DE CLIFFORD'S TRIAL

IN ROYAL GALLERY OF HOUSE OF LORDS

London, yesterday.

The trial of Lord de Clifford on a charge of manslaughter will take place in the Royal gallery of the House of Lords. The date will be announced after the new Parliament meets, declared Lord Halsbury in the House of Lords before the prorogation.

It is announced that the select committee appointed recently to inquire into procedure recommended that every Peer, when giving judgment, must declare his opinion on his honour, laying his right hand on his breast.

Lord de Clifford will be seated within the bar, uncovered and without his robes. Judges will be summoned to attend in an advisory capacity in accordance with ancient procedure. Letters will be sent to each Peer, when the date of the trial is known, asking him if he intends to attend. The Lord High Steward will preside over the court.—Reuter.

Political Party Manifestos

London, yesterday.—The political party manifestos are already being issued. Labour has appealed to the Electorates to follow the established socialistic lines. The National Party manifesto, signed by Mr. Baldwin, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and Sir John Simon, is expected shortly. Sir Herbert Samuel advises his followers to vote for candidates favouring Mr. Lloyd-George's policy of a National Council for peace and reconstruction.

In his candidate adoption speech at Carnarvon Mr. Lloyd-George denounced the Ministry for taking advantage of their opponents' divisions arising from the war policy of Mr. Baldwin. He knew, he said, that there was not the slightest prospect of a Socialist administration this time. A far greater danger was the return of another bloated majority.—Reuter.

MUSSOLINI WITHDRAWS TROOPS FROM LIBYA

ROME DISAPPOINTED AT LACK OF RESPONSE BY BRITAIN

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Rome, yesterday.
General disappointment has been caused throughout Italy by the fact that, despite Mussolini's decision to withdraw a division of troops from Libya, nothing official has yet been made known concerning the movements of the British fleet in the Mediterranean.

The weekly review Azione Coloniale gives forcible expression to this disappointment, writing that even should England withdraw the battle-cruisers Hood and Renown from the Mediterranean, this would be insufficient to bring about a decrease in the tension. Italy, says the journal, must demand much more and in any case must continue to shape her policy as if the two battle-cruisers were still there.

Milan: Under instructions from the Prefecture in Bolzano, all radio listeners in the South Tyrol—which was ceded to Italy by Austria after the war—have been warned that they may listen only to news broadcast by the Italian radio-stations and that they will make themselves liable to punishment by tuning in on news-services by foreign broadcasting stations.—Trans-Ocean Service.

NO NEW DEMANDS BY JAPAN

Earlier Demands To Be Carried Out

CONFERENCES CONSIDERED METHODS ONLY

Shanghai, yesterday.
On behalf of the Central Authorities, Mayor Wu Tieh-cheng to-day accepted the new China policy of the Japanese Government pending confirmation by Nanking in the form of a treaty.

A Nanking report credited the Foreign Office as denying that Japan has made new demands on China. It is learned that no fresh demands are made, as the Dairen and Shanghai conferences were concerned with how to carry out their previous demands.

Another conference of Japanese consuls in North China was held to-day in Tientsin under the chairmanship of Mr. Shigeru Kawagoe, Japanese Consul General in that city.

Among the terms of Sino-Japanese co-operation is the scaling down of Chinese tariffs in favour of Japanese goods.—Union News.

B.B.C. APPOINTMENTS

ENLIGHTENMENT IN GERMANY

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL
Berlin, yesterday.

South Wales Coal Dispute

London, yesterday.—Captain Crookshank, the Secretary for Mines, announced to-day that conversations are at present proceeding between the owners and the miners, in an endeavour to settle the present trouble in the South Wales coalfields. Captain Crookshank said that the underlying cause of the whole difficulty was that the price of coal at present was not sufficiently high to allow an all-round increase of wages, and only complete re-organisation of the selling system could bring the necessary relief. The miners in the meanwhile have decided to hold a strike ballot on November 11, 12, and 13, dates that fall just previous to the general election.—Reuter.

DEFICIENCIES MUST BE RECTIFIED

PREMIER'S DEMAND FOR MODERNISATION

FIRST ELECTION BROADCAST

London, yesterday.

The Prime Minister, Mr. Stanley Baldwin in the course of his first election broadcast declared that if all the nations had joined the League war could be stopped. "With Germany, Japan and the United States out of the League it is a far more difficult task and under those conditions the first testing-time of the League is taking place. The League may have other and possibly severer tests ahead.

If sanctions of a severe kind are imposed then that will inevitably lead to a blockade and the brunt of the trouble of that kind must fall in the beginning on the British navy, in conjunction with others if we are fortunate, but possibly alone if we are unfortunate.

We led the world towards disarmament but others have not followed but have increased their armaments, some tremendously, and they have not only increased but modernised their armaments. We do not want huge forces, but modernisation we do want.

The world knows that only three of our capital ships are post-war, the remainder being designed before aircraft attack had to be taken into account and many of our cruisers are obsolete as regards modern requirements.

I cannot be responsible for the conduct of the Government unless I am given power to remedy the deficiencies which have accrued to our defences since the war. We do not need huge forces but must ensure that whatever we have is the best obtainable.—Reuter.

CABINET POST FOR CHURCHILL?

Speech Attracts Unusual Attention

FRENCH SATISFACTION, BUT GERMAN CRITICISM

London, yesterday.

Unusual attention has been paid to Mr. Winston Churchill's speech, particularly to the emphasis he laid on the necessity for a strong navy in view.

There is a growing impression that he may enter the reconstructed Government, assuming the national parties' success at the polls, after the elections, as First Lord of the Admiralty in succession to Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, who is retiring from the House of Commons.

FRENCH SATISFACTION

Paris: The press in very complimentary to Mr. Churchill. His outspoken references to German rearmament are welcomed. On the contrary, in Berlin, however, the speech is violently assailed and Mr. Churchill is accused of trying to wage war against Germany through his friendship for the American-Jewish banker Baruch.

The Voelksischer Beobachter says the Government contemplate making him First Lord of the Admiralty just because he is a splendid speaker. Two papers had the report: "Churchill sees a ghost."—Reuter.

UNITED STATES MINISTER
TO VISIT CANTONPreparations To Give Cordial
Welcome To Mr. Dern

Canton, Yesterday.
Mr. George H. Dern, War Minister of the United States, who is expected to arrive in Hong Kong to-morrow, will proceed to Canton on Wednesday next.

It is reliably learned that the Provincial Chairman, Mr. Lin Yuen-kai, Marshal Chen Chitang and Mayor Liu Chi-wen have all made preparations for extending Mr. Dern a warm welcome.—Central Press.

ST. VINCENT DE PAULFete To Be Held Next Sunday

For the fifty-second time the Society of St. Vincent de Paul is holding its annual Bazaar and Al Fresco Fete in aid of the poor of the Colony. This well known organization for charity, which helps the poor without distinction of nationality or creed, has been established in the Colony for 72 years, and in the past 10 years alone has distributed more than $150,000 among the poor visited by the members in their own homes. The experience of many years has enabled the Society to make the Fete one of the most enjoyable functions of its kind in the year, and those who attend it are promised good entertainment as well as the satisfaction of knowing that they are helping a most deserving cause.

This year the Fete will be held in Kowloon, on the ground near the Rosary Church, Chatham Road, next Sunday. No pains are being spared to make the place attractive and to provide plenty of amusements for both young and old, and those responsible for it are looking forward to the generous support of the public so that they may have abundant resources to relieve the sufferings of the poor during the coming winter.

tion from General Chiang Tso-pin, Chinese Ambassador to Japan, according to a spokesman of the Foreign Office.

Rumours are rife throughout China, alleging that Japan has tightened up her economic penetration into China and will soon set up a number of agencies in South China to push the sale of Japanese goods, and that the Japanese Government has drafted a Sino-Japanese economic rapprochement scheme which will be brought back to China by General Chiang Tso-pin, as reported in the Japanese newspapers.

A message has been received by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs from General Chiang, stating that he will leave Japan for China on board the Empress of Russia on October 31 and will arrive in Shanghai on November 4. General Chiang's return is to attend the Sixth Plenary Session of the Central Executive Committee, of which he is a member.—Central News Agency.

REORGANISATION, NOT SEPARATION
IS CANTON'S AIMObject Of Proposals
By South-WestCHIANG'S DIFFICULTIES ARE APPRECIATED[From Our Own Correspondent]
Canton, Yesterday.

Although the South-west are demanding that their proposals be included in the agenda for the Fifth National Congress, they are aiming at the reorganisation of the Nanking Government and not at forming a separate government in Canton, it was learned on Thursday night.

The calling of a separate Congress in Canton is problematical, despite the tension manifested by the circular telegrams reported to be coming from various quarters. No significance should be attached to these telegrams. However, the Kuomintang leaders here expect to be re-elected members of the Central Executive Committee or Central Supervisory Committee. Only in either capacity can they issue circular telegrams.

It is stated that General Chiang Kai-shek, the strong man of the Nanking regime, is being hard pressed by the Japanese for new concessions. Having doubtless formed some plan to meet the situation, he is now back in his home in Fenghua to think things over.

General Chiang is known to have expressed regret for failure to resist the Japanese in the past and wants to be firm hereafter. He therefore urges support from the South-west.

EIGHTH PARLIAMENT
OF REIGNConcluding Debate
Shows Unity

London, Yesterday.

Parliament was dissolved by His Majesty the King yesterday. The three-day debate on the international situation in both Houses, which ended on Thursday night, concluded the business of the eighth Parliament of the present reign.

The debate is widely held to have fulfilled a valuable purpose in demonstrating unmistakably the essential unity of all parties in support of the Government's policy in the present crisis, with its two-fold aim of upholding the League Covenant and restoring peace by agreed settlement.

Newspapers contain messages from their Paris correspondents regarding the diplomatic exchanges which are understood to have taken place between Paris and Rome with a view to discovering some basis for renewed efforts at conciliation.

EMPHATIC DENIAL

In this connection, while recalling Sir Samuel Hoare's expression of hope last Tuesday that breathing space before economic sanctions are applied might be used to secure a settlement, commentators notice the emphatic statement which Sir John Simon made as he said at the request of Foreign Secretary when he wound up the debate for the Government on Thursday night. Referring to the suggestion in the press that "We are already negotiating, behind the back of the League, with France and with Italy, a settlement of the Italo-Abyssinian dispute, which the League would be asked to accept and to which Abyssinia would be told to agree," Sir John Simon said: "I speak with the authority of the whole Government when I say that there is no truth in this wild accusation at all." From the very beginning of the dispute the policy of the Government has been directed towards promoting that which would not only be within the Covenant, but would be acceptable to the two disputing parties.

POLICY DEFINED
The Government's policy in this respect was again defined yesterday morning in the King's speech on the prorogation of Parliament. In the course of which His Majesty said "My Government have loyally supported the efforts of the League of Nations with a view to the restoration of peace and the achievement of an equitable settlement in the spirit of the Covenant."—British Wireless Service.

"I made extensive trial of Kalzana in a case of Neuroses. I have been surprised at the great value of Kalzana in toning up the nervous system."

Irritability

Very often that irritable feeling is due to nothing else but a lack of certain minerals in the body. Start taking Kalzana, the mineral food, for a time. In the majority of instances this results in a remarkable improvement in health, especially in cases of Nervous Irritability, Nerve Pains and Neuralgia.

Prof. C. A. Ronzevalle, M.A. (London), writes about his experience with Kalzana:

"I was just recovering from a nervous breakdown, when 'Kalzana' was brought to my notice. I started taking Kalzana without delay and the results so far have been surprising: the digestive organs are able to cope successfully with any kind of food, the neuralgic pains in the face have disappeared and there is a general sense of well-being and fitness which I have not known for some time past."

Kalzana contains the vital minerals that build power of resistance in the body and tone-up the function of all the organs. Kalzana is not a drug, but a mineral food which must do you good. Start your course to-day and you will soon enjoy sound health again.

Messrs. Harriman's Weekly Report

October 26.

Messrs. G. A. Harriman and Co.'s weekly share report and market review issued at noon today states:—

Although the volume of trading during the week under review was on the light side, a feeling of greater interest was displayed towards stocks in many sections of the market. Consequently prices in many instances showed fair appreciation. Investment issues came in for good buying enquiry.

Hong Kong Electric rose to $53 3/4, Star Ferries to $79 and Telephones (old) to $18 1/2. Hong Kong Lands enhanced to a buying rate of $25, having changed hands at $25.10. Hong Kong Trams remained very steady with sales effected at $10.65/70. Dairy Farms continued in demand and could be placed at $15. Minor issues ruled firmer on the whole.

Watsons improved a great deal with business done up to $3.45. Ropes were better with shares changing hands at $3.8/10. China Lights remained firm with buyers at $8.10, having been done at $8.10/8.16. Providents (old) improved slightly and were put through at 55/60 cents. One account of easiness in exchange, Hong Kong Banks were firmer with transactions done at rising rates from $1.035 to $1.070. Unions closed with buyers at $403. The tone of the market at the close is firm.

Business during the week has been done at the following prices: H.K. Banks $1.035/1.070. H.K. Lands $25/25.10. H.K. Trams $10.65/10.70. China Lights $8.10/8.15. H.K. Electric $53/53 3/4. H.K. Ropes $2.10. Telephones (old) $18. Telephones (new) $55.60. Wharves (old) $65. Hotels $3.8/10. Sinceres $1.50/1.60. Dairy Farms $15. Providents (old) 55/60 cents. Watsons $3.10/3.45. Entertainments $2 1/2.

BERLIN SHARE MARKET

Decline In Prices Reported

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Berlin, Yesterday.

Though everything seemed to favour a revival of business on the share market, for instance the improved world political outlook and the satisfactory Reichsbank returns and there continued to show propitious developments in the Reich's finances, buyers showed no inclination to venture, so that many shares declined in prices. Fixed interest securities were likewise dull, but prices were mostly unaltered. The demand for call-money suddenly increased and up to 3 per cent. was paid.—Trans-Ocean Service.

The Supervisory Committee of the native banks has been instructed by the Ministry of Finance to see that the measures are carried out.—Central News Agency.

On that date the Kowloon Tong An- glican Church is holding its second annual Garden Fete in the Church grounds, No. 3 Duke Street. There will be the Home Produce stall which will have jams, pickles, preserved ginger and other dainties which everybody loves. There will be Toys and Lucky Dips, a Fishing Pond, at which you will catch parcels of interesting gifts, and hosts of other games and competi- tions.

Can you estimate the weight of anything by looking at it? If you are good at this then come and win a pig or a goose! Do you play football? Then come and kick a soccer ball through a hole and receive a prize for doing so! Do you like throwing things? Then come and knock the coco- nuts off their pegs. Do you want to hunt for hidden treasure? Then come and see how clever or lucky you are.

If you become thirsty or warm, there'll be ice-cream and drinks to refresh you. And when you become hungry you can sit down to a tea of home-made cakes and sandwiches and a refreshing cup of tea.

EXPULSIONS REPORTED FROM "FATHERLAND FRONT"

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL Vienna, Yesterday.

The clean-up which was fore-shadowed by Prince Starhemberg's recent proclamation to the Heimwehr, in which he threatened to expel all "extremists and obstructionists," has now been initiated by an investigation into the "political trustworthiness" of numerous State officials, many of whom are occupying high posts, according to the newspaper Neuezeit Abendblatt.

In one case a railway inspector and a civil engineer named Andrieth were put on the retired list and expelled from the "Fatherland Front"—an organisation which also includes Prince Starhemberg's Heimwehr—for his pronounced National leanings.

It is generally anticipated that the expulsion from the Heimwehr of two local leaders in the Tyrol for lack of discipline last Thursday will soon be followed by a similar action against numerous other dissenters among the Heimwehr ranks.—Trans-Ocean Service.

Financial Sanctions To Operate Next Tuesday

London, later: The financial sanctions against Italy come into operation in Britain on Tuesday next. Under the Treasury order this means the prohibition of loans and credits.

Tuesday next has been chosen as the date which is likely to be adopted by other financial centres so that collective action may be given its fullest possible effect.

The application of economic sanctions will depend upon the date fixed by the League's Co-ordinating Committee, which is meeting next Thursday.—Reuter.

NAVY ARE EXPECTED TO BEAT ARMY

BUT SOLDIERS HAVE FINE RECORD THIS SEASON

FOLLOWING their match-winning form recently, the Navy and Army should provide excellent soccer this afternoon at Caroline Hill when they clash in the First Round of the Kote-wall Cup Charity Competition.

The Army have not yet been beaten as a team this season, and have already recorded creditable wins against the Shanghai tourists, who they beat by 5 goals to 4, and the Malayan Chinese, who they beat last Thursday by the odd goal in three.

The Navy have only been engaged in two encounters to date, but have come through both in a meritorious manner, and, judging on the form they have displayed against both the Club and the East Lunatics, should fully extend the soldiers.

Heavier Team

With the present inclement weather prevailing, it looks much as if the heavier team will dominate play, and on the sudden and muddy Caroline Hill ground the Navy should carry the day.

Nicholson and Wolverson, the Navy backs, are two sturdy defenders who believe in riddling themselves of the ball quickly, while Bowers, the pivot, is no newcomer to local soccer fans, being prominently featured throughout last season.

The wing-halves are safe and very fast, particularly Lancashire, who should hold the Bakery-Ridley wing.

Ross, Cannell and Bennett are a deadly inside trio, while Wearmouth, on the left-wing, is always a source of danger.

Sound Team

The Army are fielding the same team which beat both the Shanghai and Malayan teams and should give a good display, particularly the halves.

Higgins, the Army leader, will be handicapped by the heavy conditions, but Ridley and Sandford, the Army inside-forwards, must be watched at all costs, particularly the former who should be very dangerous.

The following are the teams, the game commencing at 4 p.m.:—
Navy:—Hayman; Nicholson; Wolverson; Lancashire; Bowers; and Lobb; Barker, Rose, Cannell, Bennett and Wearmouth.

ST. JOSEPH'S ROUTED BY THE LINCOLNS

During a melee in the St. Joseph's goalmouth Deeming placed the Lincolns further ahead, his shot dropping in front of U. B. Souza and bouncing in over his head.

The soldiers' fourth goal was headed in from 5 yards out by Higgins from a pass by Clayton, and the final goal was scored by Ridley, who swung the ball into the net from 5 yards out from an excellent pass by Clayton.

Lincolns:—Read; Ash and Edwinton; Thompson, Deeming and Robson; Clayton, Malpas, Higgins, Ridley and Baldry.

St. Joseph's:—U. B. Souza; S. Souza and V. Costa; Sinclair; Hu-chin and Elmer; Omar, Ward, G. Singh, Leonard and Fernandez.

NAVY TROUNCE EAST LANCS. IN FAST GAME

The last goal of the game was the best of the match. Baxter dribbled the ball down the wing, centred, Jones received, beat both Swain and Steel, pivoted, and crashed home a left-footed drive which had Harmsworth well beaten.

East Lanes:—Harmsworth; Swain; Steel; Gorman, Lawton, North; Mathur, Smith, Sandford, Ridings and Ratcliffe.

Navy:—Hayman; Nicholson; Wolverson; Clarkesop, Nichols, Lobb; Dorrain, Rose, Jones, Bennett and Barker.

German Bookmaker Gaoled In Unique Gambling Case

Berlin, Yesterday. A German bookmaker named Jakoki has been sentenced by the local authorities to nine months' imprisonment, for having elaborated an ingenious system which enabled him to victimise his Berlin colleagues for considerable sums of money.

He engaged an observer to take up a position on the roof of a restaurant 3,000 feet from the Paris racetrack. By means of field-glasses the observer was able to record the numbers of the winning horses when they were posted on vice.

the board. Shortly before the race began the observer caused telephonic communication to be established with Jakoki in his office in Berlin.

Immediately the race was finished Jakoki, with the help of some accomplices, placed bets on the horse in question, some minutes before the result of the race was generally known.

The system worked all right until some of the victims became suspicious. The police were informed and tuned in on his telephone service with Paris.—Trans-Ocean Service.

A crowd estimated at 15,000 heard President Roosevelt (arrow), speak from the platform of his train at Fremont, Nebraska, and defend the American Agricultural Administration in what was regarded as the opening of his campaign to insure West support in the 1936 election.

ALL-CHINESE BOXING TOURNAMENT

CAPACITY CROWD SEES BATTLING CHAN FULLY EXTENDED

A UNIQUE occasion in the history of boxing in the Colony took place yesterday evening at the Chinese Y.M.C.A. Central Hall, Bridges Street, when the first all-Chinese boxing tournament under National Sporting Club rules was held before a capacity crowd of over 500.

The main event on the programme was a 10-round exhibition bout between Battling Chan, North Malayan boxing champion who, it will be recalled, fought Corporal Marsden, of H.M.S. Tamar, to a draw at the last H.K.B.A. tournament at the Leo Theatre, and Li Kin-kan, a protégé of "Sky" Kerrison, who gave a magnificent display in his first real encounter against a veteran of the ring.

In addition to this bout there was also a four rounds exhibition clash between Y. F. Chan and O. Y. Young, both of whom gave very good accounts of themselves.

Art Of Self Defence

One of the main features of the evening, however, was the exhibition of the Chinese art of self defence, under the catch-as-catch-can rules, employing both the hands and feet.

There was also Chinese sword play and a brilliant spectacle of an unassailable man overpowering an assailant armed with two very sharp daggers.

Both sexes took part in these old Chinese methods of self defence, the climax of which was reached when the Ng brothers, instructors in this art, opposed each other in a realistic battle which resulted in the one throwing the other, following a lightning-like hold.

Vastly Entertaining

The boxing which followed was new to many of those present, but it was vastly entertaining and gave everyone a wonderful comparison between the old and new styles.

In the first exhibition, over four rounds, Young, who is a Straits-born Chinese, was easily the cooler and to be going clear of the goal and then dropped quickly to enter the net.

After the interval the Gunners had one piece of bad luck when a good centre from Forbes, on the left wing, caused the Kowloon goalkeeper some anxiety, but the ball was cleared effectively.

A few minutes before the final whistle Kowloon added their third goal, following a good centre from D. Knox, G. White netting with a fast shot. The final goal came from a kick awarded Kowloon some 20 yards out. Bliss, with a magnificent shot, surprised Hall in the Artillery goal and netted with a direct shot from the free kick.

Kowloon:—Boyes; Everett, Willis; Kemp, Bliss, Boyd; W. Knox, V. White, G. White, Oppenheim and D. Knox.

Artillery (Stonecutters):—Hall; Price, Lewis; Gardner, Hunt, Rose; Smith, Coyle, Barracough, Adams and Forbes.

SOCCER SURPRISES ON SODDEN PITCHES

POLICE WIN GAME OF PROFESSIONAL THREE PENALTIES

Forrow played a sound game in the pivotal position, keeping a watchful eye on Stephens and sending through some careful passes, but even he badly neglected the left wing. Robertson had few chances to help his forwards, being fully occupied in endeavouring to hold Johnston and Tommy Pile, a task which he accomplished in a praiseworthy manner. On the right flank Skinner was greatly below form, kicking feebly and with little direction.

Sound Full-Backs

The defence was the soundest unit in the side, George Hill and Strange showing good understanding and confidence in their clearances.

The Police opened with a fast attack, which resulted in a fruitless corner. Then the Club got into their stride, only for Lammett to be brought down by Chris Pile when almost through. From the resultant penalty Forrow sent the Club ahead.

During the next 10 minutes the Club outplayed the Police, and with Williams and Bickford worrying the Police on the left, the latter's defence underwent a gruelling time. Shots by Fowler, the second being brilliantly saved by McHardy, and a glorious free-kick by Bickford which looked a certain goal until McHardy's long arm came up in the nick of time to punch clear, saw the Police being penned in their own area for a considerable time.

But a powerful kick upheld by Blackburn turned the tide. Tommy Pile secured and raced down the line, his ultimate centre being unfortunately handled by Hill. Moss easily converted the 'spot' kick, and the Police drew on level terms rather against the run of the play.

Police Take Lead

In the second half the same fast pace was maintained, and the Police went ahead through a penalty. A centre by Tommy Pile to Green saw Hill bring the Police inside-left down in the goalmouth, and Moss again converted the penalty kick.

The final whistle came with the Club still fighting hard, but the Police, who had shown better combination, fully deserved the points.

Club:—Rodger; Hill and S. Strange; Skinner, Forrow and Robertson; Fowler, Elliott, Lammett, Williams and Bickford.

Police:—McHardy; Blackburn and P. Pile; Brooks, Geach and Bickford; T. Pile, Johnson, Stephens, Green and Moss.

Gunners Rewarded

The hard play of the Gunners, however, was rewarded with a well deserved goal. From a corner taken by Rivers the ball went to Taylor, who passed to Knight for that player to beat Rowlands with a high shot.

The Fusiliers then broke away and Talbot sent in a glorious shot at which Durham sprang to make a miraculous save. From the rebound, however, Sullivan flashed the ball back and scored, leaving Durham helpless.

After the interval, from a corner taken by Rivers, Edmunds netted. Play then went for a time in favour of the R.A., and it looked as though they would equalise, but the Fusiliers made a counter attack and during a hectic minute round the Lyemun goal the ball went to Harrison, who beat the unrighted Durham.

Too much praise cannot be given to Durham. He played magnificently. He had the very able support of Worthington, Fisher and Morton. In the Royal Welch team the half-backs were the most outstanding.

Fusiliers:—Rowlands; Wheeler and Kenting; Wanklyn, Kenaghan and Ellis; Hughes, Harrison, Sullivan, Talbot and Roberts.

COCHET: ARAGON AND CANAVARRO

AT K.C.C. TO-MORROW

Weather permitting, Henri Cochet, the world famous French professional tennis ace, Raoul Canavarro, the Shanghai professional, and Francisco Aragon, professional champion of the Philippine Islands, will be seen in exhibition lawn tennis matches at the Kowloon Cricket Club to-morrow, commencing at 3 p.m.

Cochet needs no introduction, having one of the finest tennis records in the world. He was, together with Rene Lacoste, Jacques Brugnon and Jean Borotra, instrumental in taking the famous Davis Cup trophy over the Atlantic from America to France in 1927, after a long sequence of American successes, and then proceeded to hold it for the next five years!

Wimbledon Champion

He has won the Wimbledon, American, and French Championships. Canavarro is also no newcomer to the Colony, having played for Shanghai in the Interport series. He is Shanghai's veteran player now that John H. Wade has retired.

Brilliant Filipino

Francisco Aragon is undoubtedly the most brilliant player the Philippines have produced. He was seen in action here about four years ago, but has improved beyond all recognition since then. It is understood that there will be no time for any demonstrations and these have now been cancelled. Cochet will leave for Australia next Saturday.

The Programme

The following is the tentative programme:
To-morrow Cochet will meet R. Canavarro in a three set match, while on Tuesday F. Aragon will play Canavarro. On Wednesday Cochet will meet Aragon. On each day after the singles match there will be a doubles match. The exhibitions will commence at 3 p.m. on each of the three days.

Prominent Guests

At Tuesday's match a distinguished gathering will be present, including H.E. the Officer Administering the Government, the Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith, H.E. the Acting General Officer Commanding, Major-General W. F. Thackeray, Mr. Justice R.E. Lindell, the Hon. Mr. M. K. Lo, the French Consul, the United States Consul and party, and the United States Secretary for War, Mr. George H. Dorn and party.
On Wednesday the French consul will entertain Cochet at luncheon at his residence. Prominent members of the local French community and the leading officials of the H.K.L.T.A., the H.K.C.C. and the K.C.C. will also be guests.

"MAGIC CARPET" OF HONG KONG

"Shots" Taken in Hong Kong Hotel Grill Room

Only on very rare occasions has the Grill Room of the Hong Kong Hotel been more crowded than it was last night, when Bonney Powell, ace cameraman for Fox Films, took 1,500 feet of film of the crowded dance floor for the "Magic Carpet" picture of Hong Kong.

Nearly a dozen brilliant arc-lamps, distributed around the floor, changed the usually softly lighted room to a ghostly white. A specially constructed carriage, which is technically known as a "dolly," mounted on three small wheels, carried the giant camera and its operator, which, entering through the door of the Jacobean Room, was pushed up and down the room, clicking continually.

CURIOUS BELIEFS ABOUT FOXES MAGICAL POWERS AND ATTRIBUTES SUPERSTITIONS CURRENT IN CHINA AND JAPAN

(By PHYLLIS JUBY)

BOTH in China and Japan the fox is regarded as the animal into which human spirits enter in preference to any other, and innumerable fox-legends figure in the folklore of both countries. The legends, always dealing with the supernatural, are full of enchanting pictures born of the primitive imagination: foxes take on the form of beautiful women, they pass through the mist with luminous jewels on their tails, they are goblins with the power to see into the past and unveil the future.

The home of the fox is most often in a grave, or it may be upon the ice. Below the ice is the region of the female element, or yin—the dark Hades of death and obscurity; while above it is the male element, or yang—the bright world of life and activity. The fox, neither of life nor of death, is accordingly represented as on the ice of rivers. Of the grave-fox it has been written: "In the deserted grave lives a fox. Though centuries old she is young, for she transforms herself into a beautiful maiden with clouds of glossy hair and flowery cheeks, her long tail becoming a flowing embroidered robe. When the sun sets and all is quiet she goes slowly along the highways of the village, singing and dancing, or sometimes sobbing and weeping. At times she pauses as if in deep thought and, blushing, for a minute hides her face, then suddenly smiles and becomes entrancing. It is therefore not surprising that nearly every man she meets is bewitched. Such is the power of beauty! Why does not poor humanity seek the reality instead of succumbing to its simulations?"

Fox Disguises

It is at the age of 100 that a fox may become either a witch endowed with powers of magic, or a beautiful young maiden cunningly bewitching young men and leading them to their doom. Ta K'i, the favourite concubine of Chou Hsin of the Shang dynasty, in the twelfth century B.C., was supposed to have been a nine-tailed fox in disguise. According to one account she was finally detected by a Taoist priest by means of a magic mirror which showed her in her true form. She managed to escape, however, and in the twelfth century A.D. she migrated to Japan, where, again in the role of favourite concubine, she bewitched the Emperor and caused him to sicken almost to death.

A fox-woman will not only avoid the revealing mirror, but she will be careful not to cast a shadow on the water, for this, too, reflects her true form. The beautiful woman is the favourite shape assumed by the goblin fox for deluding mankind, but as there are undoubtedly men quite unsusceptible to feminine witchcraft, the fox is never at a loss for a disguise. Further, she has the power to make you see or hear or imagine just what she wishes and, though most active at night when he practises all kinds of magic, even at noon a fox may tempt you to go where you are sure to get killed, or make you imagine you are feeling an earthquake. He is dreaded, too, because besides deceiving by enchantment, either for revenge or pure mischief, he has the power of entering into people and tormenting them to madness.

An Amusing Letter

To this day there is preserved at Nara an amusing letter once written to Inari, the Japanese Fox-god. It reads:—

"To Inari Daimyosin:—My Lord, I have the honour to inform you that one of the foxes under your jurisdiction has bewitched one of my servants, causing her and others a great deal of trouble. I have to request that you will make minute inquiries into the matter and endeavour to find out the reason of your subject misbehaving in this way, and let me know the result."

"If it turns out that the fox has no adequate reason to give for his behaviour, you are to arrest and punish him at once. If you hesitate to take action in this matter, I shall issue orders for the destruction of every fox in the land."

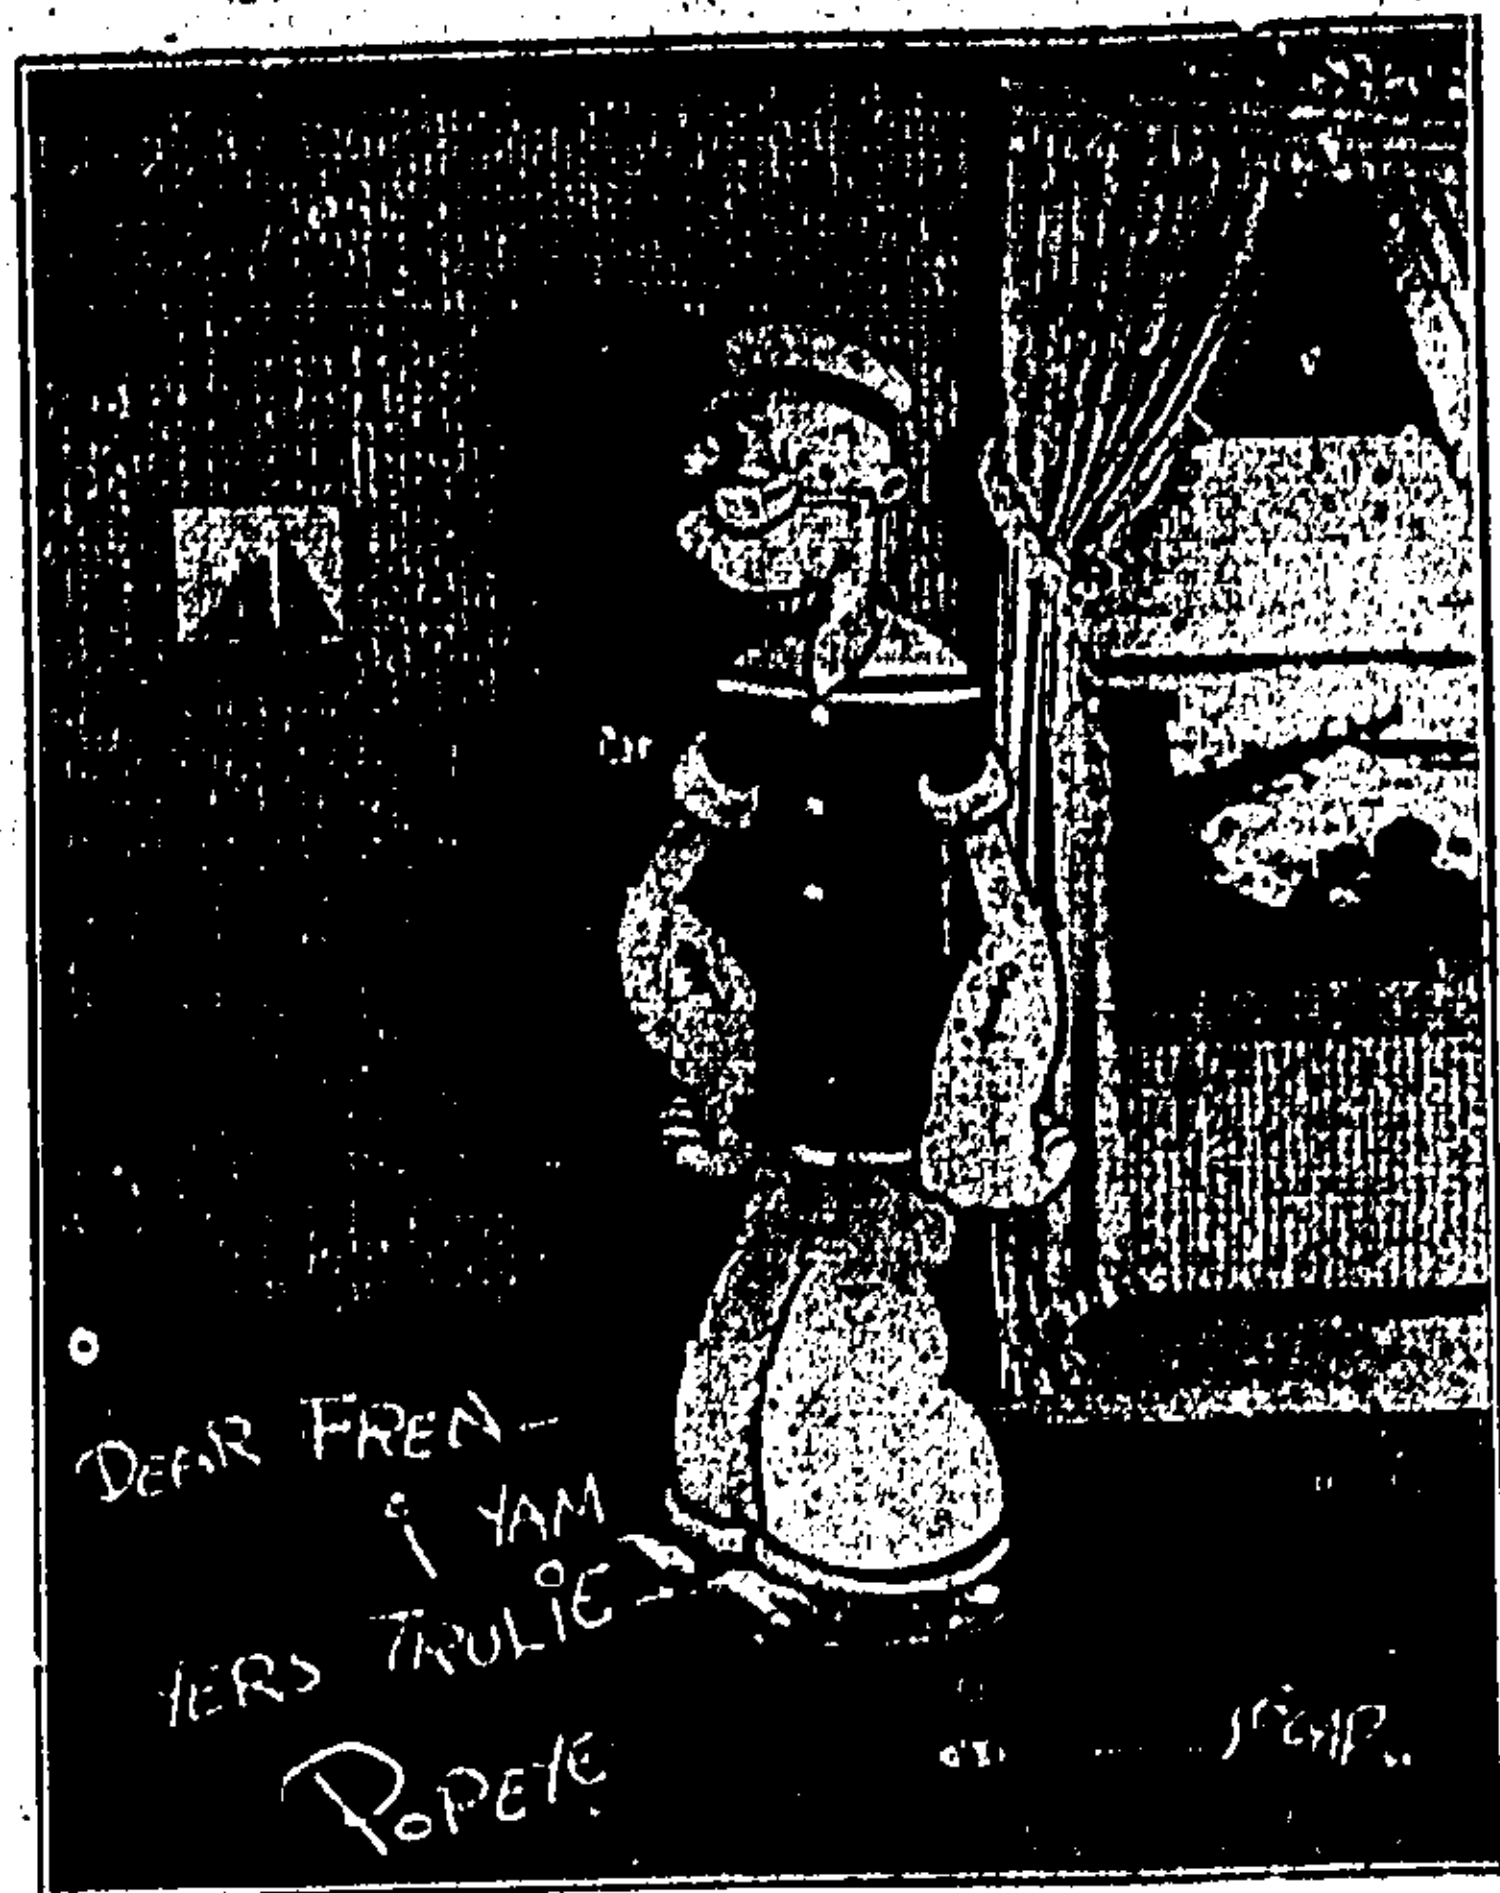

"Any other particulars that you may wish to be informed of in reference to what has occurred, you can learn from the high-priest Yoshida."

"Apologizing for the imperfections of this letter, I have the honour to be

Your obedient servant,
Hideyoshi Takko."

Beneficent Foxes

But the fox is a capricious creature; it always has supernatural power, but is not always malefic. It may even be benevolent. The God Inari, for example, is often worshipped as a healer, and still more frequently as a deity having the power to give wealth. And in China the "Celestial Fox," a highly-evolved creature that has already passed its thousandth year, is, according to one version, of benign nature, appearing only during the reign of a benevolent and peace-loving Emperor. A writer of the Ching dynasty says of the Celestial Fox: "The divine creature came from Ching Shan—Green Mountains. Her nine tails are the symbol of her wonderful power. She came when the Empire was prosperous, bringing as a greeting a book which she carried in her mouth. But after the overthrow of the Chow dynasty and the corruption of the Empire she degenerated into a witch and brought no end of trouble to the people."

In some parts of Northern China the Celestial Fox is worshipped on the first day of each moon, and statues of her are sometimes to be seen in places of worship. She is shown as a maiden in stately robes from under which issue nine long bushy tails. Japanese Beliefs

In Japan there is the strange Man-fox whose presence is felt, but is never seen. It attaches itself to a household with its entire family of 75—no more and no less. And the fox-possessors must feed this large family at regular hours; their eating is soundless and invisible, but the rice slowly diminishes. Although these may be good foxes helping to maintain the prosperity of the household, should any grave misfortune fall upon the family in spite of their efforts, they will suddenly flee away, taking all the valuables of the household with them. And of course all the fine gifts that foxes sometimes bring to their masters are things which they have stolen from somebody else.

The worst of all the risks of possessing foxes, however, is the danger that they may become angry with some member of the family, for at the most unexpected moment the fox may show his displeasure and there is no saying what the consequences may be. It is impossible, too, to get rid of the foxes, for he who kills a fox incurs the risk of being bewitched by its kindred or even by the ghost of the fox itself.

When a fox knocks at a door there is a peculiar muffled sound easily recognised by the experienced, for the fox always knocks with its tail. Open the door, however, and you would probably be confronted by a beautiful girl, who, if you be a friend of foxes, would present you with a gift of some sort and then vanish away in the darkness. The gift will seem much larger that night than it will in the morning, for only part of a fox-gift is real, just as a fox is only able to speak in fragments of words.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

The Question Of Tactics

(By Lieut.-Col. H. M. BEASLEY)

BIDDING is the strategy of the hand dealt entirely with the question of tactics, and it is at this latter stage of the game that the declarer must formulate some plan as to the best use to make of the material which is at his disposal.

As soon as the first lead has been made and the dummy has gone down on the table, the declarer must make some adequate plan to attain his objective. He may see that the situation is hopeless, and in these circumstances he may decide to retire gracefully with the minimum of loss.

However, if there is some hope of his making his contract he must formulate a plan which, of course, may be subject to change as the situation develops.

The doubtful trick which he is hoping to make may depend entirely on a successful finesse; and if there is no other method of finding the necessary trick then of course the finesse must be taken.

A finesse, however, is an even money chance and you will find that there are many hands in which unsuccessful finessees are attempted when the adoption of another method of attack would be more favourable.

Here is a hand played recently in a duplicate match where at all tables a contract of four spades was reached, but in only one case was the declarer successful in fulfilling the contract.

North:—
S—10 8 5 4
H—A K Q 7
D—9 8
C—9 7 6

West:—
S—9 7 6 3
H—10 8 4 3
D—K 7 6 5
C—2

South:—
S—A K Q J 2
H—6 5
D—A Q 3
C—Q 10 4

East:—
S—
H—J 9 2
D—J 10 4 2
C—A K J 8 5 3

The contract is Four Spades by South.

Against this contract West opened with his singleton 2 of Clubs. This was won by East with the King. East then led the Ace of Clubs and found that West was void of the suit. West discarded a Diamond, as he must keep his Heart suit intact. East then led a small Club, which West trumped.

In order to fulfil his contract South had to make the remaining ten tricks.

He could see five tricks in Spades, three in Hearts, and one in Diamonds. Nine tricks; and if he could bring off a successful finesse in the Diamonds the game was assured.

Which plan should he adopt? This Week's Problem

North:—

East:—

C—Q 10 5

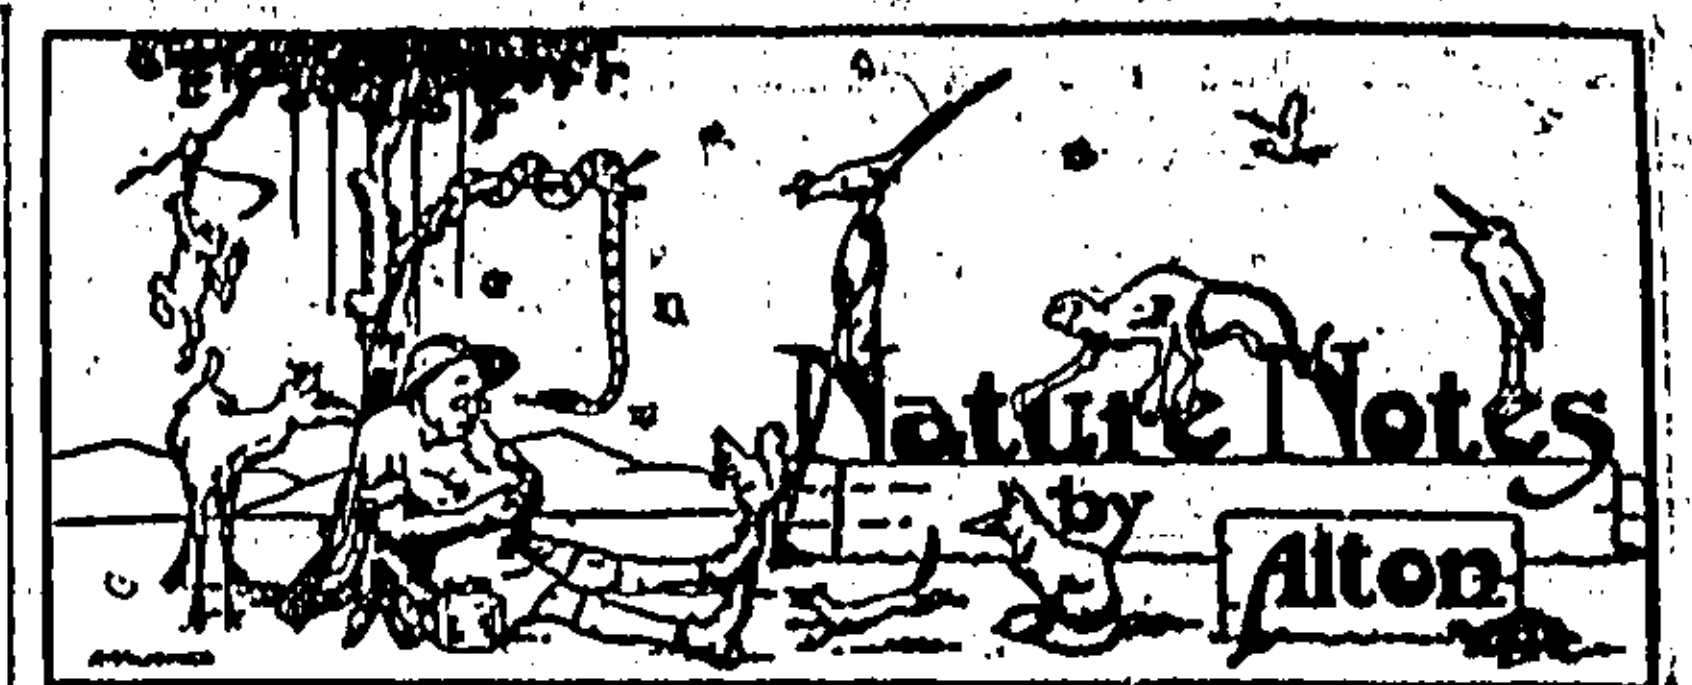

Spades are trumps. South to lead. North and South to make six tricks.

He had the choice between (a) attempting the finesse, or (b) relying on a squeeze play, hoping that he would be able to force West either to unguard the Heart or the Diamond suit.

West, after winning the third trick, led the three of Hearts, which was won with the Ace in dummy.

South now proceeds as follows: (a) Leads out five rounds of trumps.

On the fourth round of trumps West is forced to discard another Diamond. In order to keep his Heart suit intact. (b) On the fifth round of trumps West is in a dilemma. He has the choice

HONG KONG AND THE NEW TERRITORIES—No. 178.

SOME weeks ago a lady sent me a few seeds of eggs of the Moon or Luna Moth, Attacus luna. I could not thank the donor, for I never learnt her name. I am particularly stupid over the telephone and if people ring me up asking for advice on creepy-crawly and receive only hackneyed phrases in return, well, they now know the reason. A letter is so much more sensible and does not result in food becoming indigestible through premature congealing. But this is by the way and I do here thank my unknown donor for those eggs. They duly hatched and the larvae were fed on the leaves of one of the Tallow Trees, Sapium sebiferum. This tree is easy to recognise, for its leaves resemble those of an Aspen. Popular: they are a bit smaller and of a darker green colour. The tree is quite common; there is a clump on the Deep Water Bay golf-course. The caterpillars are now full-grown and are pupating.

Food Of Larvae

Two days ago a friend sent to my house four full-grown larvae of the Atlas Moth, Attacus atlas (Saturnia atlas). Fortunately my house-boy did not think they were chow, though he did put a meat-saw over the top of the box. (While my wife was bathing baby one day he carried up to the bathroom a loose paper parcel containing a live cobra. . . . Fortunately the cobra was dead.) That same night three of these caterpillars spun large cocoons in which they pupated. The fourth was weighed on the next day and found to weigh 18 grams; it has since spun a cocoon. These larvae were feeding on the leaves of the Hong Kong Ivy Tree, Heptapleurum octophyllum, a long name, but the tree is easy to recognise as the leaves have eight large leaflets arranged palmately and when crushed emit the characteristic ivy smell.

Normally the Atlas moth spins a cocoon in the branches of a tree, attached by a thread to a twig, so that the cocoon hangs down. It is very large, and can be easily seen if the tree is deciduous and drops its leaves in winter, as do some of the native host plants of this species.

Both these moths are too well known to need description. They are large and handsome and the caterpillars make interesting pets. The Atlas moth caterpillar will also eat the leaves of camphor, Camphora.

Easy Money

"I've told you it wasn't, sir," he answered with dignity. "Our family tried to find it or get it back from Uncle Martyn for years; but in the end they had to confess themselves beaten."

Mannerling looked again at the dresser, his quick eye appraising its solidity. Ample room for hiding places in those thick legs, he thought, and in the depths of the massive frame. There seemed to be little doubt that the couple were speaking the truth, and if that was so, then somewhere in the depths of the dresser were two hundred guineas' pieces, worth perhaps double or treble their value to-day.

Mannerling knew that small bids would be hopeless with Jim and his wife, and he adopted the bridge player's ruse of bidding high to start with.

"Look here," he said with every appearance of honest candour. "I'm a rich man, and I feel sorry for you about that money. Also, I like your dresser more every time I look at it. I tell you what I'll do—I'll give you one hundred pounds for it. What do you say?"

It took the old couple a long time to make up their minds, but at last the dresser changed hands. Mannerling made arrangements for its immediate removal, and within an hour it was gone.

"I can't rightly believe it even now, mother," said Jim that evening as, for the fiftieth time, he looked at Mannerling's cheque for £100. "I'm sorry the dresser's gone, but a hundred's a lot of money. He must have liked the dresser a terrible lot, eh?"

His wife looked thoughtfully at the blank space where the dresser had stood for so long. "Almost as much as great Uncle Martyn, I liked that two hundred guineas," she answered slowly. "I wonder what he did with it after all."

Jim shrugged his shoulders. "We needn't worry about that now," he answered. "Tian's as though they were golden guineas—they were only bank stock, and the bank closed down 80 years ago. Those guineas aren't worth the paper they're written on now."

Jim shrugged his shoulders. "We needn't worry about that now," he answered. "Tian's as though they were golden guineas—they were only bank stock, and the bank closed down 80 years ago. Those guineas aren't worth the paper they're written on now."

SANCTIONS: WHAT THEY ARE AND HOW THEY WORK

NAPOLEON once declared, in a vivid but inelegant phrase, that an army marches on its stomach. In modern warfare, the whole nation is mobilised into one vast army, even if part of it is non-combatant.

Put these two facts together, and you have the basic idea which underlies Economic Sanctions. Their purpose is, literally, to starve a belligerent nation into submission.

Apart from the mere question of food supplies, nobody can wage war without materials of warfare, and no single territory to-day, with the one very doubtful exception of Soviet Russia, provides within its own borders all the primary raw materials which form the sinews of modern war.

Check Upon Supplies

Nations going to war therefore depend upon foreign supplies when their own stocks of basic products are exhausted.

These supplies may be checked in two ways without resorting to forcible measures. Other nations may agree not to supply the materials required by the warring States. That is the direct method. The second way, which achieves the same object by a more round-about route, is to wreck the intricate financial machinery which makes purchases possible.

Article XVI of the Covenant of the League of Nations definitely provides for such measures. This is the famous Sanctions clause. It suggests a terrifying picture.

It binds members to subject an offending State to the "severance of all trade or financial relations, the prohibition of contact between nations, and the prevention of all financial, commercial, and personal contacts between nationals of the Covenant-breaking State and those of any other State, whether a member of the League or not."

If the League went the whole hog, the punishment might almost be as barbarous as the crime of war itself.

A small island nation, for example, could be starved to death. Stringent blockade could throttle its commerce, cut off its supplies of food and raw material, and wreck its whole economic life.

The Financial Weapon

Then a financial drive could deliver the final knock-out. Every source of credit could be blocked. The Great Powers could put an embargo on foreign exchange. This would prevent the nations with the currencies attacked from securing the currencies they need to buy goods. A money market ban for instance, on kroner, marks or lire would stop nations using them from securing sterling, francs or dollars to pay debts.

Goods and payments could be confiscated. Loans could be tabooed. The life stream of a nation could be stopped.

The Great Blockade could, in short, prove as devastating as the Great War. No country could last long against the full squeeze of economic and financial sanctions.

Less Drastic Scope

Such a prospect was, in fact, too serious for the League itself to contemplate, once the martial spirit of post-war days had evaporated.

A sub-committee of the League Council has, therefore, been at work considering less comprehensive action. Its aim was to make war almost impossible, yet not wreck the economic life of the belligerent nation.

This sub-committee's report was presented last July. It suggests, in effect, setting a limit on economic sanctions by withholding from an aggressor nation a limited number of "key products" needed for warlike preparations. It divides these into three classes:

1. Arms, ammunition, implements of war.
2. Key products for the manufacture of armaments which can be banned without seriously affecting a country's normal economic life.
3. Other products required for munitions but also widely employed in industry.

Embargo on the exports of arms has already been employed in the case of the Gran Chaco war between Bolivia and Paraguay. It has long been recognised as one of the most effective ways of preventing warfare.

Key products required for making armaments include several metals only a few countries possess. China, for instance, produces two-thirds of the world's supply of antimony. Canada supplies nearly 90 per cent. of the world's nickel. Potash comes mainly from France and Germany. Britain, Belgium and U.S.A. smelt practically 75 per cent. of the world supplies of pig-iron.

Raw materials like cotton and wool are also largely monopolistic supplies which might well come under the third class.

The sub-committee also mentions as a deterrent the "exclusion of other special classes of imports required solely for civilian purposes."

Interruption of export trade is another measure which the sub-committee was not prepared to rule out as "absolutely indefensible."

Financial pressure suggested in the report includes the withdrawal of all credit facilities. Measures are also proposed to stop any forbidden material from trickling in by a neutral country acting as a supply depot.

When Britain Acted

Britain has herself used one form of sanction in a milder way. She placed a ban on food from Soviet Russia in 1933, after the arrest of the Metro-Vickers officials in Moscow. The embargo was removed only after their release.

Strict enforcement of full economic sanctions against a Power in Europe might entail a blockade of practically all its overseas trade. This includes trade with U.S.A. and Japan, which are outside the League of Nations itself.

Some speakers have suggested closing the Suez Canal as a specific sanction against Italy. This measure was employed against Spain in her Philippine Islands conflict with U.S.A. Britain cannot act alone, however. France, Germany, Turkey and Austria would have to consent to closing the canal. Britain could only do so alone by breaking Suez Canal treaty obligations.

Even ruling out the Suez embargo, and accepting the modifications suggested by the sub-committee of the League, financial and economic sanctions might make the boldest aggressor tremble.

Behind them is the still more formidable weapon of military sanctions.

Article XVI clearly contemplates this.

"It shall be the duty of the Council," it states, referring to a wilful disregard of the Covenant, "to recommend... what effective military, naval or air force the members of the League shall severally contribute to the armed forces to be used to protect the Covenants of the League."

Technically, complete unanimity is required to put any of the sanctions into operation. In effect,

By an overwhelming vote Senator Manuel Quezon, "Father of Philippine Independence," has been elected first president of the new Philippine Commonwealth, the inauguration of which will be celebrated on November 15. The Commonwealth Government will be succeeded in 10 years by complete freedom from the United States.

CURIOUS BELIEFS ABOUT FOXES

Story Of A Fox-birth

There is a story told of a physician who was called one evening to attend a case of confinement of a house on a hill some distance from the city. His guide carried a lantern painted with an aristocratic crest, and on arriving he was most courteously received in a house of magnificent proportions. The mother gave birth to a fine boy. The family entertained the physician to dinner and then sent him home laden with presents and money. Next day, according to custom, he went to thank his hosts. But he could not find the house; there was nothing on the hill but forest. When he returned home he examined again the gold that had been given him. All was as before except one piece, which had changed into grass.

The fox is thought to have a luminous soul which is the source of its magic—luminous because of the fiery nature of the fox. This luminous soul is thought to be attached like a jewel to its tail; and, when the "will-o-the-wisp" is seen flitting through the dark night, the Japanese peasant will exclaim "The foxes are having a festival."

Another popular superstition both in China and Japan is the "Fox's Wedding." When the sun shines through a shower the wedding is said to take place, the variability of the weather being compared to the caprice of the fox. The fox, too, must marry during the day, but since he mainly haunts dark places, particularly avoiding the sun, he selects for his wedding a time when it is partially obscured by rain.

however, the leading Powers might themselves individually apply them, if a split were engineered to balk collective action at Geneva.

"To speak about sanctions," declared Mussolini himself, in his proclamation from Bolzano on August 20, "implies entry upon a slope from which the gravest complications may grow."

It was a mixed metaphor. Nevertheless, it is true—as true for the nation against which sanctions are directed, as for the nations which as a last resort adopt them.

HIGH JAPANESE OFFICIAL MAKES CANTON VISIT

Gen. Okamura Arrives
Via Hong Kong

SPECULATIONS AS TO REAL
OBJECT OF TRIP

(From Our Own Correspondent)
Canton, Yesterday.
Major-General Neiji Okamura, chief of the Second Section of the Japanese General Staff, arrived here at noon today by train from Hong Kong. He is accompanied by Lt.-Col. Kanza Usuda, Japanese resident officer in Canton.

Much attention has been drawn to his visit here, foreign sources having stated that the Japanese Army is interested in the developments in the South-west. Officially, General Okamura's visit is slight-seeing and calling on high military and civil leaders here.

Tokyo newspapers recently published a report that the Japanese Army has either to submit to or crush General Chiang Kai-shek and that the latter course would be adopted. It is also stated that Japanese army leaders want to sever the Northern provinces from Nanking.

High officials here have formed a certain policy towards the Central authorities and are not likely to be affected by the scheme of the Japanese Army, of which General Okamura is a representative for the time being in South China. Canton is now a good market for Japanese goods. General Okamura's mission is to further Japanese activities in this part of the country.

clash with the enemy which resulted in the capture of the important town of Goleld.

A number of tribal chiefs have made their submission to the Italians, to whom they have handed over 600 rifles. The bulletin reports nothing new from the Eritrean front.

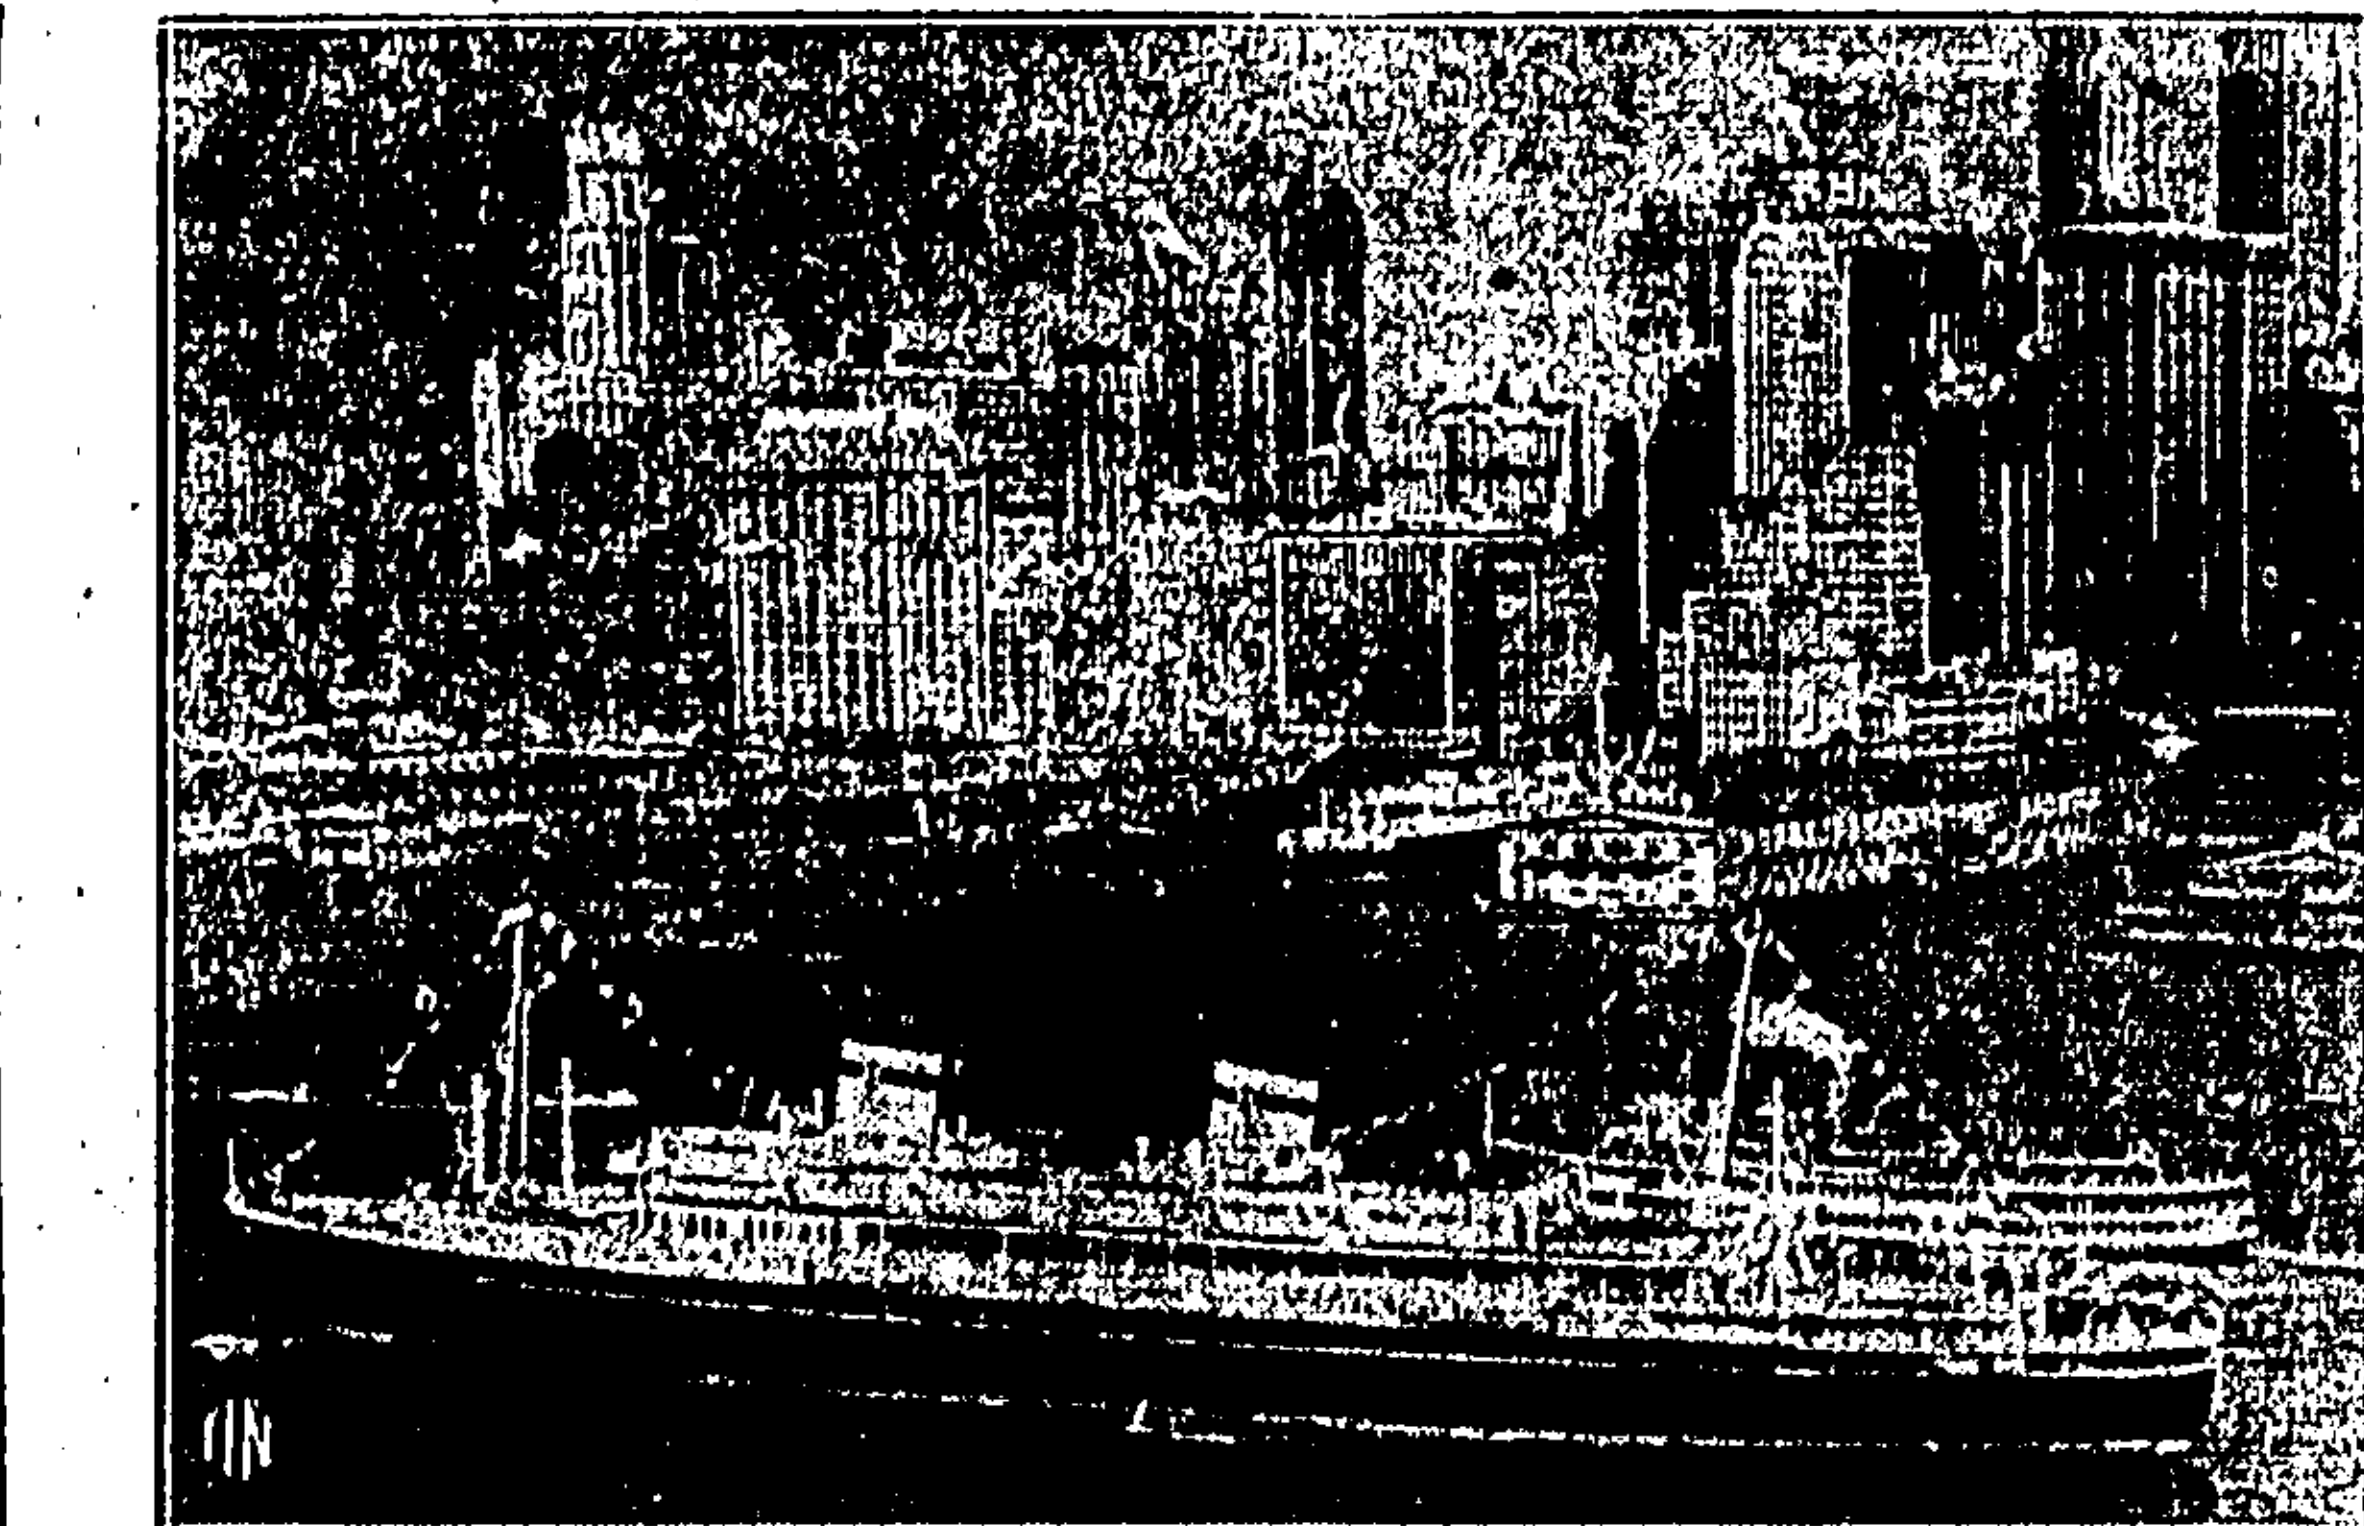

50,000 PASS THROUGH CAPITAL
Addis Ababa: Some 50,000 troops from the provinces of Kafa and Wollega have been marching uninterruptedly through Addis Ababa since last Thursday, on their way to the front. These troops are commanded by the governor of Kafa, Ras Getatschu Abak, the former Ethiopian Minister to Paris and delegate to Geneva, whose father was Ras Abak, who distinguished himself at the Battle of Adowa, 39 years ago.

It is stated here that the Italian commercial representative's caravan, whose arrival is awaited by the Italian minister, Count Vincini, has now reached Mojo, on the railway line near Addis Ababa, so that Count Vincini is expected to leave the capital either to-day or to-morrow.

DENIAL FROM VATICAN
Rome: Rumours that the Holy See has been exercising its influence in favour of a peaceful settlement of the Italo-Abyssinian conflict were vigorously denied here yesterday in a statement published by the news bulletin, La Correspondenza, which claims to have been authorised by Vatican circles to issue a denial.

THYAN WITHDRAWALS
Naples: The steamer Sannio sailed for Libya yesterday in order to bring home the first contingent of the division of troops which have been recalled to Italy.

Poland's new liner "Pilsudski," here shown arriving in New York on her maiden trip, may have a big effect on all trans-Atlantic travel because of the primary attention given to tourist class accommodations. It was built by Italy on the barter basis, with Poland paying off the cost in coal. New York city notables greeted the ship's company.

BRITISH MONOPOLY CONCLUDED

Telephonic Service
Between Europe
And America

FRENCH GOVERNMENT SIGNS CONTRACT

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL
Paris, Yesterday.

A contract has been signed here between the French Government for the establishment of a direct wireless telephone service between France and the United States, thus breaking the British monopoly of wireless telephonic communications between Europe and America.

It is stated by the press to have been largely brought about by the British Post Office's recent action in refusing to permit the transmission to the United States of the broadcast statement by the Italian delegate to Geneva, Baron Aloisi, on the Italo-Abyssinian conflict, after the arrangements for broadcasting the statement had been made by the Radio Company of America.

Under the provisions of the contract a powerful transmitting and receiving station for the wireless telephone circuit to the United States will be constructed near Paris.

The American Company had, according to press reports, for a long time refused to co-operate in establishing this service on the ground that it would not prove profitable, but Washington intervened recently and caused the company to change its mind—Trans-Ocean Service.

sumed their activities on the southern front yesterday, contrary to Abyssinian expectations. The Abyssinian positions, the town of Gorahai, as well as numerous villages on the Webbe Shebell river are reported to have been bombed.

An American woman missionary, accompanied only by her servants, arrived at Addis Ababa from the interior of the Sudan yesterday evening after a fortnight's journey, in the course of which she met many large detachments of Abyssinian troops on their way to the front.

She reports that, nevertheless, she was able to travel entirely undisturbed, without let or hindrance, and that everything was perfectly quiet in the regions through which she passed.—Trans-Ocean Service.

MEMORIAL TO PILSUDSKI

House in Lodz Bought By Polish Association

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL
Warsaw, Yesterday.

The house in Lodz where Marshal Pilsudski in his early revolutionary days published the illegal Socialist newspaper Robotnik, and in which he was later arrested by the Russian police, has been bought by the Association of Polish Reserve Officers.

The house will be re-furnished in exactly the same way as it was when Marshal Pilsudski lived there, and will be preserved as a memorial to him.—Trans-Ocean Service.

AN EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS

Two French For Two Germans

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL
Berlin, Yesterday.

An overseer in the well-known rolling iron and steel works in Voelkingen, in the Saar Territory, named Rathke, who lost his eyesight as the result of wounds received during the war, as well as an employee of the same works named Frischmann, who were both condemned in France to two and a half years' imprisonment for alleged espionage, were released yesterday afternoon after serving 16 months of their sentences.

Both prisoners have been released in exchange for Frenchmen sentenced for similar offences in Germany.—Trans-Ocean Service.

their uniforms and wore plain clothes. Before reaching the Communists' lair, they encountered Hunanese troops, who opened fire on the Cantonese. The misunderstanding, however, ended after the Canton troops revealed their identity.

But the Red chiefs were under the mistaken impression that the Cantonese soldiers were real bandits and sent emissaries to conduct them to their headquarters. The Red chiefs called a meeting to welcome the new comrades, who shot dead the Communist leaders before giving them a chance to show fight.

CANTON TO HONG KONG BY NIGHT TRAIN

K.C.R. Manager On Possibilities

CANTON APPEAL DISCUSSED

The number of trains running between Kowloon and Canton was in accordance with the requirements of the traffic, was the view expressed by Mr. W. D. Walker, general manager of the British section of the Kowloon-Canton Railway, in the course of an interview with a Sunday Herald representative yesterday. The remark was prompted by a reference to an article which appeared recently in the Canton Gazette to the effect that the present service between that city and the Colony should be augmented, particularly at night.

Mr. Walker went on to say that the Railway would be prepared to run an express every hour, if the traffic warranted such action.

The article in the Canton journal continues by drawing a comparison between the service extended to Hong Kong travellers and that provided for the Canton community. The Hong Kong business man, it states, can travel from Hong Kong at 10 p.m. and arrive at his destination in the early hours of the following morning, leaving him with plenty of time to transact his business that day. This has always been denied his colleague in Canton, and the Gazette demands a reason.

Mr. Walker went on to explain that as the journey between the two cities occupied only three hours by train, passengers would have to put up with the inconvenience of either leaving very late or arriving very early. Later a solution might be found by running an express from Canton at 6 a.m.
